MASS MEETING AT HARVARD HIGH TONIGHT!

FIVE TO AID IN SOLVING PROBLEMS

Body Without Executive Power But Will Give Officials Advice

The City Council, at an adjourned meeting held last night, made good its promise given to the voters when the sewer bond campaign was undertaken last year, and appointed an advisory committee of five members to consult with and advise the council on all matters relating to letting of contracts and the construction of the sewer.

The personnel of the committee is as follows: Herman Nelson, John A. Logan, William L. Truitt, Alex Mitchell and Bert P. Woodard.

Action Unanimous

The motion to appoint the committee was made by Councilman Sam Davis, seconded by Councilman S. S. Gilhuly. With all members of the council present, the motion carried unanimously.

The committeemen have not been notified of their selection, consequently it is not known whether all will serve, but the councilmen are of the opinion that the appointments will be accepted.

It Was No Secret

The Glendale Evening News has known for some time that the Council had under consideration a list of men for members of the sewer committee, but this newspaper carefully refrained from "suggesting" to the Council the appointment of a committee. Some newspapers learn an official body is favorably considering a project, hasten to "suggest" that the project be carried out—and then, when it is, claim the accomplishment. Such are the tactics of an inexperienced publisher.

The committee, which will act purely in an advisory capacity, without executive power, will be called in to assist the councilmen in deciding on matters relative to the construction of the $1,600,000 sewer systems, bonds for which were voted at the election

PAINLEVE HEADS FRENCH CHAMBER

Millerand to Fight Attempt Of Foes to Oust Him From Presidency

PARIS, June 4.—Former Premier Paul Painleve, one of the leaders of the victorious left bloc, was elected president of the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon and immediately afterwards conferred with President Millerand at the Elysee palace. Their discussions related to the identity of the new premier who will succeed Raymond Poincare.

According to the slated program, the president will send for Edouard Herriot and appoint him premier, at the same time asking him to form a cabinet.

Millerand to Fight

Action in the near future depends upon the course of President Millerand. A strong faction of the left bloc insists that he should be forced to resign, but the president, after consulting with his colleagues, made it plain that he would fight to retain his post. He may be voted out of office, but will not retire voluntarily.

Cancel Commutation Tickets on G. & M. Ry.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—A straight fare of 5 cents must hereafter be paid by passengers over the Glendale and Montrose railway as the result of an order entered by the state railroad commission here. In the past the railroad has issued a thirty-ride family commutation ticket for $1, making the fare three and a fraction cents. All of these tickets are now cancelled. The company disclosed at the hearing that at the end of last year there was a deficit of $81,116.41.

Members Of City Sewer Committee

The City Council last night appointed an advisory committee of five to aid in solving the sewer problems as they come up for consideration. The personnel of the committee:

HERMAN NELSON, who lives at 641 East Harvard, is manager of the Glendale avenue branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank. He is recognized as an authority on the local financial situation and has served on many important committees.

WILLIAM L. TRUITT, realtor and builder, with offices at 134 North Central, resides at 317 West Doran. He is one of the leading builders of the city and has had much experience along the lines of sewer construction.

JOHN A. LOGAN, 122 East Park avenue, is cashier of the First National bank on Brand boulevard, a financier of enviable reputation and a hard worker for Glendale's advancement. He will be able to give the council sound financial advice.

ALEX MITCHELL, retired, living at 1349 Ben Lomond Drive, was for many years receiver of the United States land office in Los Angeles. He has not held office for some time, but has always taken an active part in municipal affairs. He has a large following having faith in his judgment.

BERT P. WOODARD, who maintains law offices at his residence, 203 North Maryland, is one of the leading members of the Glendale bar. He is an active supporter of civic enterprises and his legal training will be of assistance in handling this branch of the work. He was formerly city attorney.

DEFIES PROBERS, CITES DECISION

Daugherty Tells Committee Without Authority to Make Him Appear

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty today defied the Wheeler-Brookhart committee to compel him to testify in the Senate investigation of his administration of the department of justice.

Daugherty had been ordered to appear on Friday. He told Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, the committee chairman, in a letter, that he would not appear because the committee had no authority to make him testify.

This was the same issue successfully raised by the former attorney general's brother, Mel Daugherty of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, who would not permit the committee to examine the books of his bank. A federal court at Cincinnati upheld Mel Daugherty's position.

Daugherty referred to the Cincinnati decision and said that in view of that "it would seem to me to be a vain thing to continue an illegal proceeding and inquiry, and I must therefore decline to appear before your committee."

Daugherty Scared

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—"Harry Daugherty does not dare face the Senate inquisitors and be subjected to cross-examination under oath," said United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, here today when informed of Daugherty's defiance of the Brookhart-Wheeler committee, investigating the department of justice under the Daugherty administration. Senator Wheeler is here on a two-day visit.

Halt Funeral, Sister Dying From Poison

SACRAMENTO, June 4.—Preparations for the funeral of Ellen Fratis, local school girl, who was stricken suddenly under circumstances which, according to authorities, indicated she was a victim of ptomaine poisoning or poisoned candy, were halted today by the serious illness of Madeline Fratis, 8-year-old sister of the dead girl. Madeline is also declared to be suffering from poisoning.

PREPARE FOR BASEBALL HOLIDAY

Committee of Business Men Inaugurates Campaign to Sell 5,000 Tickets

Saturday, June 14, is to be the greatest baseball day in the history of Glendale, even greater than the official opening of the White Sox park on San Fernando road last fall, according to the plans of the committee recently appointed to assist Frank Kerwin in financing the team, regarded by many business men as one of the city's greatest advertising assets.

The following were present at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the office of H. M. Bennett, 600 South Brand boulevard, when the ticket-seiling campaign was organized: R. E. Johnston, L. H. Wilson, S. S. Gilhuly, W. P. Potter, J. I. Wernette, H. M. Bennett and Frank Kerwin

As a feature attraction for the day, Kerwin has signed the Pacific Fleet championship team from the U. S. S. New Mexico to play the White Sox, who at this time have won fifteen consecutive games from the fastest semi-pro teams in southern California. This feat on the part of the Glendale team and the accompanying publicity in the Los Angeles papers, which gives Glendale advertising of a very desirable kind, has led the business men of the city to 'go to the bat" for Kerwin who is having difficulty in keeping the park open, due to the lack of patronage at the weekly games.

Thousand Tickets Gone

Five thousand tickets have been printed, and the committee expects to sell every one of them. A thousand were distributed yesterday afternoon as a starter. As the ticket sells for fifty cents each little difficulty is anticipated in placing them.

An effort had been made by several members of the committee to have the White Sox come in for a grant under the budget for the expenditure of funds recently collected for an advertising campaign. The advertising

Plague Confined to Only One District

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—With all outbreaks of hoof and mouth disease reported during the week in this section of the state confined to the closed Hynes district, officials of the state department of agriculture announced today that Southern California was virtually free from the cattle malady. Complete eradication of the disease in the Hynes district will be speedily effected, officials said.

Silk Masked Bandit Gets $300 at Store

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Masked with a silk handkerchief and armed with a brace of revolvers a lone negro bandit held up the Drake grocery here today and escaped with $300, taken from the cash register. The store had just opened for the day's business when the negro appeared and ordered clerks to throw up their hands.

JAPANESE KILLED

SACRAMENTO, June 4.—Hurled 150 feet when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an inbound Southern Pacific train between this city and Roseville last night, K. Hino, Japanese rancher of Sutter county, and another unidentified Japanese, were instantly killed.

News Readers Like To Pay for Long Time Subscriptions

One very substantial reason The Glendale Evening News is appreciated in the homes of the subscribers is the large number of remittances made for yearly, semi-yearly and quarterly subscriptions. It is this practice of paying for long periods of time that reduces the expense of making collections and the keeping of additional records. This saving is used in making a better paper for the readers.

Beauty Competition Vulgar, Is Charge Hurled at Women

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Beauty contests are vulgar, detrimental to womanhood, and utterly useless.

These charges were hurled in the faces of thousands of American clubwomen here today attending the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs by Mrs. Clayton D. Lee of New Jersey, who launched a campaign to stop beauty competitions in her state and throughout the country.

"I cannot speak strongly enough against them," declared Mrs. Lee, who asked that her club sisters join in a fight against the famous Atlantic City beauty contest.

Mrs. Florence Dibert of Johnstown, Pa., a candidate for second vice-president of the federation, announced she would support Mrs. Lee in her campaign against pluchritude displays.

BUSINESS RULES AT WOMEN'S MEET

Delegates to Biennial Are Marshaling Forces to Convention Fight

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Putting aside for the time luncheons and entertainment features, delegates to the seventeenth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, got down to business at the second session of the meeting here today.

While various committee meetings occupied most of the day's work, leaders of various factions in the fight to place the club women on record as to disarmament were marshaling their forces for the battle on the convention floor.

Favor Strong Defense

Sentiment of the delegates was declared to be in favor of a powerful army and navy for the United States until such time as a world peace plan is adopted.

Pacifist leanings were denied by many og the club women leaders and it was predicted while the club women would endorse a peace plan they would vote against disarmament.

SLAYERS' LAWYER OUTLINES PLANS

Attorney Prepares Campaign To Defend Youths In Franks Murder

CHICAGO, June 4.—The first carefully planned moves in the fifteen millon dollar defense of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of 13-year-old Robert Franks, became evident today in the announced intention of a famous criminal lawyer to combat every effort to introduce in court the evidence on which the state's case will be built.

This attorney, whose name has been withheld, but who is believed to be Clarence Darrow, chief of defense counsel, asserted his hope lies in precedents established by the Illinois supreme court. He believes, he said, that this court will uphold his efforts to keep the confessions from the jury because no confession can be proven to have been obtained without duress.

Outlines Defense

Other points that will be pressed are:

No one has been found who saw the killing.

No one has been found who saw either of the prisoners with Robert Franks on the day he was kidnaped and slain.

Neither Loeb nor Leopold can be forced by the state to take the stand and they will not be placed there in their own defense.

Navy Dirigible Back From 1100-Mile Trip

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 4.—Nosing her way through the fog, the navy dirigible Shenandoah returned to her landing field early today, having made a voyage of 1110 miles over New York state into Canada and back.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT TOTAL DISPLAYS STEADY INCREASE IN GLENDALE'S POPULATION

Superintendent R. D. White Submits Figures To Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors; Need More Facilities

That Glendale's population is maintaining a steady growth is shown by figures submitted last night to the directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce by Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, who said that all of the elementary schools of the city, with two exceptions, have materially increased their enrollment during the past year.

The figures on school enrollment, Mr. White stated, are regarded as an unfailing index of the population of a city, and such statistics are used as the basis of computing the number of residents in cities all over the country.

Reports Steady Increase in Enrollment

For the four years preceding September, 1922, he stated, the annual increase in enrollment had been 23 per cent over that of the previous year, and in the year ending September, 1923, the increase had been 29 per cent, showing beyond any question that the population of the city was advancing steadily during all that period. The actual increase, Mr. White claimed, in that period would be over 150 per cent, as the basis for computation changed each year.

The increase in enrollment between September, 1922, and September, 1923, he said, amounted to 1092, or enough to fill two additional schools, figuring an average of 500 pupils to each school, which is close to the present average attendance of between 400 and 600 pupils at the local schools.

The two schools that have shown a falling off in enrollment are the Cerritos avenue school and that at the corner of Colorado and Louise streets, and this reduction is attributed to the fact that business has developed in the districts served by these schools and that residents have moved to other sections as this encroachment has continued.

Attendance at Various City Schools

The figures quoted by Mr. White showed the following enrollment at the various grammar schools of the city in May of 1923 and May, 1924:

	May 11, 1923	May 9, 1924
Acacia avenue	342	497
Broadway	435	552
Central avenue	362	457
Cerritos avenue	238	231
Colorado street	334	306
Columbus avenue	564	687
Doran street	299	385
Glendale avenue intermediate	343	438
Grand View	186	410
Magnolia avenue	62	130
Pacific avenue	436	498
Wilson avenue intermediate	506	657
Total	4107	5248

These figures, said Mr. White, show the imperative need for additional school facilities if the children of Glendale are to have the proper educational training. Some of them, he added, are faced with the prospect of half day sessions in the near future, and a joint committee of the high schools and the grade schools are working to reach a solution of the present problems that will prevent overlapping and confusion in working out the plans for the enlargement of the school system.

Mr. White pointed out that May and June of each year customarily show a falling off in attendance at the schools, as families that have been here for the winter move east again, but this year the May figures have shown an increase.

Advertising Committee

Reporting on the progress made by the advertising committee, Paul E. Stillman, the chairman, stated that the artwork for the entire campaign as planned has been prepared by Charles R. Stewart, the expert employed by the committee, and Mr. Stewart has already tendered his resignation to the committee as he is planning to leave for a trip to Europe within a few days.

Mr. Stewart will be asked to meet with the advertising committee and the Board of Control within a few days, when he will present all bills for expenses in connection with the work he has done to date.

Julius Kranz, of the industrial committee, asks that L. H. Wilson and Charles B. Guthrie be added to his commission, but decision on this point was held over for a week. Mr. Kranz also favored the proposed industrial survey of Glendale, and the expert who has been in communication

SET HI-JINKS FOR NEXT WEDNESDAY

Auto Dealers to Motor to Forest Home for Big Annual Event

The annual high jinks affair staged by the Glendale Automobile Dealers' association will be held next week at Forest Home, near Redlands, it was announced by President Lyman P. Clark at the meeting held today noon at the Egyptian Village. The dealers will leave Glendale at 12:30 noon next Wednesday and return some time the following day, it was announced.

Members of the association are privileged to bring one guest, in addition to as many from the organization as they can load into their automobile, it was announced. Complete details of the event are more or less a secret, it was said.

Secretary M. B. Towman told the members of the association the traffic commission appointed some time ago by the City Council, has made a report to the council the middle of last month but as yet the council had not acknowledged receipt of the report.

Unless the council shows some co-operation and works with the traffic commission, it is felt the commission will have nothing further to do. The report was read by Secretary Towman and indorsed by the club. The number of arrests for speeding and minor infraction of motor vehicle laws has been cut down 75 per cent since the report was filed with the council, it was said.

Free delivery in Glendale by all jobbers in Los Angeles has been a long fight, President Clark announced by the association after a long fight, President Clark announced.

Urge Coolidge to Adopt Compromise Over Farm Relief

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Republican leaders of the House today appealed to President Coolidge to approve a compromise farm relief program so as to offset a filibuster that would block the adjournment of Congress on Saturday.

Mr. Coolidge promised to look over their program and give them an answer during the afternoon.

Following the defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill, reeated protests from the farm bloc have aroused the House leaders to action.

The latest compromise plan is to take the remaining profits of the United States Grain corporation and authorize the war finance corporation to buy surplus products for export to European markets, the loss to be met by the government.

Farm bloc leaders estimated that more than $100,000,000 is available for this purpose, without making an additional appropriation.

Perfect Flight of 500 Miles Sees Two Army Birdmen Over Sea Passage

SHANGHAI, June 4.—Making a perfect landing on the Whangpoo river, Lieutenants Leigh Wade and Erick Nelson ended at 3:11 p. m. this afternoon what they characterized as the most perfect leg of the round-the-world flight since leaving Santa Monica, Cal. The course was a 500-mile hop over China sea.

Flight Commander Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith was detained at Kagoshima, Japan, by engine trouble.

"We hopped off at 7 o'clock this morning," Lieutenant Wade said. "Our machines were working perfectly but Lieutenant Smith had engine trouble and was unable to rise from the water. We circled around for an hour and finally Lieutenant Smith signalled us to proceed. We came on and the flight was entirely without incident."

INCOME TAX COLLECTOR IS AMONG SPEAKERS

Public Invited to Attend 'Keep White Spot White' Gathering Tonight

The importance of industrial development, with its resultant stability, prosperity and property value insurance, will be driven home to the people of Glendale tonight at a monster meeting of the local Greater Los Angeles association chapter, in the Harvard High school auditorium, Chairman Charles B. Guthrie presiding. The meeting will open at 7:30 o'clock.

Among the prominent speakers who will address the large audience are Harry H. Merrick, president of the association; Rex B. Goodcell, collector of internal revenue; Morgan Wood, who is remembered for his forceful address at the recent meeting in the editorial rooms of The Glendale Evening News; and A. E. Warmington, a noted talker and one whose remarks are crammed with facts of vital bearing on how to "Keep the White Spot White."

More Prosperity

That more payrolls for Los Angeles territory means additional prosperity for Glendale and individual benefit to each resident, is obvious, Mr. Guthrie states. But it must be remembered that these benefits will not accrue if each individual relies on someone else to do his part. Industrial development of this territory means team work, and he therefore urges every resident of this city and surrounding points who is interested in expansion to be present at tonight's meeting, and to bring his friends.

The Greater Los Angeles association, through its creation of the Industrial Finance corporation, purposes to provide finances for the expansion of existing industries and the founding of new industries, encouraging local manufacturers to broaden their field and meeting eastern manufacturers half way in establishing western plants, states Mr. Guthrie.

Program of Industry

This will be accomplished, through long-term financing, and will in no way overlap the function of the banks, whose credits must of necessity be liquid. With an organization 25,000 members strong, reaching out into every city, town and hamlet of the Los Angeles territory, an ultimate capital of $50,000,000 will be provided for the program of financial co-operation with industry outlined by Mr. Guthrie.

Full details of the working out of this broad-gauge program will be presented by the speakers at tonight's mass meeting in the Harvard High school auditorium, when a unique opportunity for individual partnership in the Greater Los Angeles association will be offered to the people of Glendale.

Local Committee

The local committee of the association comprises: Charles B. Guthrie, chairman, and A. L. Baird, George H. Bentley, J. M. Boland, A. T. Cowan, A. R. Eastman, W. L. Twining, Herman

TROTZKY IN CLAIM TO TURKISH STRAITS

LONDON, June 4.—Leon Trotzky, head of the soviet war office, in a war-like speech at Tobolsk, declared that the Turkish straits—head of the Bosphorus and Dardanelles—would eventually belong to Russia, according to a press dispatch from Moscow this afternoon. "We must proclaim to the world that we need the Turkish straits," said Trotzky. "We need Constantinople. Bessarabia—the Russian province seized by Rumania—is vital to us, because it is the first step towards Constantinople. If the Rumanians and Poles try to bar the way we will fight."

Plans to Aid Library Bond Election Discussed At Meeting

At the meeting of the Grand View Improvement association, held last night, with President Alexander Mitchell in charge, the resignation of C. B. Hill as treasurer was accepted and Dr. John Grim elected to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Mitchell gave an interesting report relative to the coming $47,000 library bond election. The Grand View district already owns two lots on Fifth street and $500 in cash, and $10,000 of the $47,000 will be used by the Grand View section, and the balance will be applied toward the addition to the main library on Harvard street.

Several members of the association have agreed to help Rev. Bruhl, Presbyterian minister, who is conducting services in the Grand View school on Sundays, to secure a suitable site for the erection of a church.

Mrs. Myrtle Buckman and Col. James Everington were appointed to represent the Grand View district, and are to take the matter up with the school board at once.

The association will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, July 1.

A short program included readings by Miss Bailey, "First Aid to Matrimony" (Dix), and appropriate lines by Miss Winnie Sinclair.

Both Miss Gates and Mr. Overholt have many friends in university circles, Miss Gates being a member of Sigma Alpha Kappa, sorority, University of California, southern branch, and a member of the WaWan and Lyric clubs. Mr. Overholt is a recent graduate of the law department of the University of Southern California, and is a member of the Gamma fraternity and also of the U. S. C. GLENDALE GIRL BECOMES BRIDE, WED AT CHURCH

Charming Ceremony Unites Miss Harriett Cook And Hal Weeks

One of the most elaborate weddings solemnized this month, the bride's month, took place last night, Tuesday, June 3, 1924, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Harriett Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cook of 639 North Orange street, and Hal Weeks of Los Angeles, son of Mrs. S. W. Weeks of Rochelle, Ill., were united in marriage at the Glendale Presbyterian church. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the church, officiated at the single ring ceremony. Several hundred relatives and friends were in attendance.

The chancel of the church had been transformed into a beauty spot and was banked with asparagus ferns and maidenhair ferns, a variety of palms, potted ferns and greenery. Tall white baskets filled with beautiful spring flowers were also used.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Mildred Dixon Puffer sang "At Dawning" (Cadman), accompanied at the organ by Paul Carson. The wedding march from "Lohengrin," was played by Mr. Carson at the organ for the entrance of the bridal party, and Mendelssorn's Weddiny March after the ceremony.

Ushers and Bridesmaids

The first members of the bridal party to enter were the ushers, Walter (Brick) Beach, Owen Showalter, Kenneth Whaley and Don Cowlin, all of Glendale.

The next to enter were the bridesmaids, Miss Odelle Cunningham, Miss Dorothy Haig, Miss Helen Beach, all of Glendale, and Miss Pearl Pollock of Ocean Park, girlhood friends and schoolmates of the bride. Each wore pastel shaded taffeta frocks made in bask effect and trimmed in cream lace ruffles. They wore taffeta and horsehair hats to match their frocks. They carried shower bouquets of sweetpeas and maidenhair fern. Miss Cunningham wore yellow, Miss Haig, blue, Miss Beach, orchid, and Miss Pollock, green.

The next to appear was the matron of honor, Mrs. John T. Jenkins, who wore a gown of apricot colored georgette trimmed with chiffon and silver lace in scalloped effect. She carried a shower bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses and fern.

Little Flower Girl

Then came the little flower girl, Joy Madson. She was a picture of loveliness in her white dotted net frock trimmed with ruffles and pink ribbon. She carried a little basket filled with orange blossoms and roses which she scattered before the bride.

Miss Cook presented a most pleasing picture as she entered the church with her father, B. F. Cook, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in an elaborate creation fashioned of white chiffon brocaded in silver and made over white satin. It was sleeveless and made in panel effect with a rich silver sash fastened on the side with a large bow. She wore a wedding veil fastened in place with orange blossoms and pearls, and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

PLANS DRAMATIC SEASON OF NINE MONTHS AT CLUB

Impresario Leases Theatre To Stage Plays With Brilliant Company

The revival of the spoken drama seems to be taking root in Glendale, for yesterday, at the Tuesday Afternoon club luncheon, formal announcement was made by Mrs. Florence Dobinson of Los Angeles that she has taken a lease on the clubhouse from October, 1924, to June 1925, with the intention of giving Glendale a season of popular and dramatic entertainment.

Previous announcements of Mrs. Dobinson's coming to Glendale have been made in the columns of The Glendale Evening News, but yesterday was the first tentative plans were made public.

Outlines Plans

Mrs. Dobinson was one of the luncheon speakers at the club yesterday, and she declared "I am not coming to Glendale to establish a little theatre or a players' group, but to bring a talented group of actors and actresses who will present for you popular and classical drama.

"I believe the time is right, the place is right, and that my organization will be of great value to your city."

Mrs. Dobinson added interest to her plans by announcing that she had just received word from Norman Hackett that he will join her company in October for a three months' engagement. Her leading man will be William Harvey Stevens.

She stated that in all probability the engagement of her company will open with one of Edith Ellis' plays. Edith Ellis, who is the author of "White Collars," "Mary Jane's Pa' and other successes, is a well-known playwright. It was Mrs. Dobinson's pleasure to ttend the recent garden fete the Tuesday Afternoon club gave at the Brand estate with Edith Ellis.

Famous Collection

The Dobinson dramatic collection is known internationally, and yesterday Mrs. Dobinson made known that, if the engagement of her company is successful in Glendale, part and perhaps all of this famous collection will be brought to the local clubhouse.

Of course the clubwomen are delighted over the lease made with Mrs. Dobinson, for the income will add materially to the club treasury.

Popular prices of 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 will be charged for admission to the plays.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, chairman of program, sat at the right of Mrs. Urquhart and sitting back of this group were honorary presidents of the general Federation, the General Federation board and chairmen of standing committees. Back of them were members of the California Local Biennial board and the California state federation officials.

A symbolic dance, expressive of California's welcome to the thousands of club women here, were given by girls of the junior auxiliaries.

Mrs. Sartori called the convention to order and introduced Mrs. Urquhart, who gave greetings as state president of California.

Mrs. Winter was then presented and in eloquent words she sounded the keynote of the convention. Her subject was "What Makes a Nation Great," and throughout her address she stressed the theme of the biennial "World Peace."

"World peace looms in the offing. We are nearing the time when civilized nations will settle their disputes amicably and without the horrors of war," she said.

After the convention session a reception was held at the Biltmore hotel, where seven receiving lines were formed.

Mrs. Toll Receives

Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, as president of the Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs, headed the third receiving line, including Boyle Workman, acting mayor of Los Angeles; the recording secretary of the local biennial board and eight directors of the General Federation.

Now that the biennial is under way the nation is eagerly anticipating resolutions that may be adopted and also the outcome of the selection of a successor to Mrs. Winter.

BAN STOCK SHOW AT COUNTY FAIR

Danger of Spreading Cattle Disease Prompts Officials To Issue Decision

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Because of the continued presence of the foot and mouth disease in the southern part of the state, livestock will not be shown at the Los Angeles county fair this fall, according to present plans of the fair association.

The danger of transporting high bred stock to the fair is given by the officials as the reason for the decision not to exhibit animals.

To make up for the absence of livestock, special emphasis will be placed on agricultural products, officials say. Horticultural exhibits especially will hold a leading place on the program. Farmers and fruit growers of the county are being urged to center their efforts on carefully grown fruit that in previous years has been put to high-bred stock.

Japanese Artist and Wife Are Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur David Timmons of 325 Roads End had as dinner guests on Sunday the Japanese artist Kuzunao Kodaira and wife.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Krachey, Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Wetmore, Mrs. Marie Lyons of the state labor commission, and Richard Hopper.

Mr. and Mrs. Kodaira are sailing the first part of July for the orient. This is their fourteenth visit to America.

City Turned Into Flower Garden as Delegates Arrive

Los Angeles was a garden of flowers today.

Hundreds of delegates to the seventeenth biennial convention of women's clubs turned Los Angeles into a bower with the wearing of state flowers.

Georgia delegates emblazoned their famous peaches throughout convention hall and hotels, while other southern states brought laurel wreaths and magnolia.

Black-eyed Susans came from Maryland; North Dakota brought the wild rose and Colorado the Columbine.

Kansas women carried gay walking sticks, topped with gorgeous sun flowers.

From Iowa came women wearing corn stalks and lustily chanting "Iowa—that's where the tall corn grows."

REV. THORNBURGH TO GIVE SERMON

Presiding Elder of District Speaks at Gospel Tent, Fairview, Tonight

Rev. Thornburgh, presiding elder of the California district of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, will preach the sermon tonight at the gospel tent in the Fairview addition. He has been helping with the establishment of the revival meetings in Glendale.

Those in charge report that the revival meetings are increasing in interest and attendance. Rev. McPheeters, who is visiting in Burbank, preached on Monday night, and the gospel team provided an interesting feature of Tuesday night's program with testimony and special songs.

Mrs. Durham of Woodland, California, will speak on "The Second Coming of Chirst" tomorrow night, and on Friday a special meeting for young people will be held.

Lots of Talent for Business and Sport

The birth of another son to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. McCartney, on Sunday, June 1, 1924, gives the heads of the real estate firm of Hayward & McCartney, 142 South Brand boulevard, five boys between them, enough, they believe, to permit the reorganization of their business along lines that will put a scion of one or the other house at the head of a special department of his own.

But turning to the really serious business of life, E. P. Hayward has already begun to develop a basketball team from among the youthful members of the two families, as he figures that a real live squad of casaba tossers can be lined up as soon as the youngsters learn to keep their feet and to follow the ball.

WEEDS PRESENT CIVIC PROBLEM, DANGER OF FIRE

Difficult to Adopt Policy to Fit All Cases; Should Be Removed Now

What is the solution to the vacant lot problem in Glendale, with its unsightliness and fire menace due to the rank growth of weeds which stands on most of them?

This is the problem that confronts the City Council and causes no end of worry to Chief A. H. Lankford of the fire department.

It is hard to adopt a definite policy that will meet all cases, according to the city officials, yet something has got to be done. In many cases reported this summer grasshoppers collecting on a vacant lot have caused great damage to neighboring property, but the fire hazard is the one item that overshades all others in considering the situation.

Big Fire Hazard

Due to the unprecedented dry winter and spring, Chief Lankford states that in many sections of the city choice residences would almost certainly be destroyed if fire started in the grass and weeds on adjoining lots.

The system employed by the city in recent years and in vogue at the present time has worked out fairly satisfactorily, yet it requires a great deal of time. Under this plan, when a vacant lot is reported, the engineer looks up the owner in the county records at Los Angeles, and a registered letter is mailed him ordering him to cut the weeds, and threatening him with arrest if he does not comply with the demand.

City Engineer Ben S. Dupuy stated this morning that in every instance, according to his best recollection, results were obtained by this method last summer. In no case did the owner refuse to do the work or have it done after it had been brought to his attention.

Needs Extra Help

This, however, requires the services of several employes who can ill be spared for this work when there is so much improvement going on in Glendale as there is at present. The approximate cost of tracing the owner and notifying him is approximately two dollars, according to his estimate.

The majority of fires reported to the fire department the past month have been grass fires on vacant lots started through carelessness. If one of these started on a windy day and there was any delay in notifying the department, it is probable, according to the chief, that damage to property running into thousands of dollars would be done.

Follow Same Plan

Until some plan is worked out whereby property owners can be compelled to cut the weeds and burn them without delay, the present method will be followed.

All property owners are requested to cooperate in the work, especially during this week, which "Clean-Up" week by virtue of the Mayor's proclamation.

The sarrussophone, the rival of the saxophone in tone production, is said to be deeper toned than any instrument now generally in use in orchestras.

NOTED ARTISTS TO AID BENEFIT THURSDAY NIGHT

Program to Be Presented by Knights Templar Will Have Good Talent

Tomorrow night at the Broadway High school, the Glendale Commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, will stage its big benefit vaudeville program, with nine headline acts scheduled for presentation. W. W. Worley who is in charge of the performance states that some of the best talent in this locality has been secured for the benefit.

The program should draw heavily from the music lovers of Glendale as such famous entertainers as the Orpheus Four, Ettore Campana, famous tenor, and Calmon Luboviski, noted concert violinist will be featured. Other well known talent headed by A. B. Kachel and Mrs. W. G. Barber, readers, will add diversity to the program and make it one that will please the most exacting audience.

The musical program will include selected pieces by the Glendale Union High school orchestra: "Romance Andaluza," (Sarasate); "Liebsfreud," (Kreisler); and "Tambourine Chinois," (Kreisler), played by Mr. Luboviski on the violin; the prologue from "Pagliacci," (Leoncavallo), and the Toreador's Song from "Carmen," (Bizet), sung by Mr. Compana.

Russian Number

Mr. Kachel will present the stirring Russian drama, "The Melting Pot," which is said to be one of the best readings of the large number that he gives. Mrs. W. G. Barber will give the reading "Miantowana," by T. B. Aldrich, accompanied by Grace Caldwell Bennett at the piano.

A dancing number and an act of mystification are also included on the program. Lois Naudain will appear in a charming toe dance, "Vanity Fair," and Professor Ryboldt will give a demonstration of magic and mind reading.

The benefit is being given for the purpose of securing funds to send the drill team of the Glendale Commanders to Seattle in July 1925, where it will appear in the national competition between Commandery drill teams.

Spend Vacation Trip At Camp In Mountains

An enjoyable ten days' camping trip has been enjoyed recently by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hemenway, of 345 West Califrnia avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Trotter at La Joya lodge in the San Bernardino mountains.

They report that they found the lodge a wonderful camping location. They pitched their tents under wonderful old live oak trees, near a spring of pure cold water, large enough and abundant enough to supply a fair sized town with drinking water.

This tract was opened early in March and is proving very popular as a location for summer cabins. The air is dry with cool breezes as the elevation is over 3000 feet. Access to the camp is gained by way of Bouquet canyon or San Francisquito canyon, both roads being fairly good.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Here in the west we often criticize our national law makers for not understanding our problems. We think the seat of government is too far away, and this criticism is just many times, although the Pacific slope is making itself felt more and more in Washington. On the other hand, the east has problems that we, here in Southern California, cannot appreciate, for instance, the exploitation of childhood. Here the tendency is toward too much leisure and playtime and too few duties and responsibilities for children.

In 1922 the Supreme court declared our child labor law unconstitutional and ruled that Congress has no power to pass laws to protect children from exploitation that would interfere with their right to receive an education or that would injure their health. So an attempt was made to secure a constitutional amendment that will enable Congress to legislate in regard to child labor.

The amendment was introduced by Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois. It first passed the House. Now it has passed the Senate. Therefore, it is before the states for submission to the various legislatures.

Here in Glendale where children, as a rule, have too few duties, it is difficult to realize the extent to which the exploitation of childhood for gain is carried in certain sections. In the mining districts of Pennsylvania many children of 13 and 14 years of age are full-time wage earners. In the Mississippi oyster and shrimp canneries children of from 6 to 12 are working from 6 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night. In two counties alone in Colorado 715 children under 6 years of age, and 1400 between 6 and 16 are at work in the beet fields from eight to ten hours a day for weeks at a time.

While our child labor law was in effect, child labor steadily decreased. Since 1922 it has increased at an alarming rate. The efforts of industrial exploiters of childhood are turned toward the defeat of the McCormick amendment just as they fought the old Federal Child Labor law. They are saying this amendment prohibits all labor of all children under the age of 18. This is not the case. The amendment makes only one provision, the granting of power to Congress to legislate according to the needs of the times.

"In the child labor case," says Jackson Harvey Ralston in the Forum, "the Supreme Court condemned thousands to stunted lives or death."

It is worse than disgraceful that such a condition should exist in the United States, and it only adds to our shame that nearly every country of northern and western Europe has passed legislation affording protection to children equal to that of the federal statute which our Supreme Court declared unconstitutional.

Child labor, illiteracy and a high death rate go hand in hand. Child labor has no place in a country where education is free, universal and compulsory. Surely the states will ratify this amendment.

FIXING THE BLAME

The task—and it is a grim one—of fixing the blame for the Hope Development home fire started at the inquest over the bodies of the twenty-three women and girls who perished in the holocaust at the school at Playa del Rey last Saturday night.

The district attorney of Los Angeles county is in charge. Cries of anguish came from parents and relatives as they viewed the long rows of blackened bodies. One woman, mother of one of the girls who was burned to death, collapsed at the sight of her daughter's body. Truly, it was a harrowing scene.

Trapped in the ramshackle building, with doors and windows locked, the twenty-three gave up their lives. There were no fire escapes on the building. There was no fire fighting apparatus—and no one to use it if there had been, according to accounts. Certainly there were none of the ordinary precautions to guard the lives of the inmates.

It is said that there will be four or five investigations to determine the guilt of the person or persons responsible for the outrage. It is well that there should be a thorough inquiry. Responsibility should be placed. The guilty should not be permitted to avoid the penalty. But, why not continue and investigate other institutions to determine whether they have adequate fire protection?

Investigations are right. The Glendale Evening News believes that the responsibility of any disaster should be placed. But we also believe that investigation BEFORE a disaster may PREVENT one.

It is too often the custom of officials who are in charge of inspection to become careless. They seem to take it for granted that a disaster will not occur—that immunity is assured. Then comes a fire and negligent officials are awakened by an "inquiry." The time to take precautions is BEFORE the fire.

OUT OF EQUILIBRIUM

A writer in The Forum attributes the state of chaos in which our civilization finds itself today to the fact that we have made an astounding advance in the last 100 years in industry, agriculture, surgery, navigation, transportation, communication and other things while in politics, laws, morals, customs and religion we have remained comparatively stagnant. Our material advance has been so much greater than our spiritual advance that it has thrown our civilization out of equilibrium.

Here's a tip on how to end wars: Have the manager of Jack Dempsey arrange them. He would make it so costly the countries could not afford them.

A man says he has discovered the Garden of Eden in Asia. He is wrong. Will the Glendale Chamber of Commerce please put him right?

Female bandits in China are forcing rich young captives to marry them. Will China sell that kind of a game in this country, too?

If you can make the darn snake take it, it's always a good plan to have a bottle of snake medicine handy on your camping trips.

Why not have a world court of our own? Good idea! But would the rest of the world recognize its jurisdiction?

MISS FLAPPER MUST AT LEAST BE CAREFUL ABOUT HER BATHING COSTUME

Keep Moving

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Keep moving! You are not so liable to get hit.

This bit of philosophy comes from the capricious Douglas Fairbanks, who recently spoke to the Boy Scouts in New York.

The advice is not only good for boys. It is good for men and women.

Everyone meets someone eventually who throws things. If you are still they get a good aim at you and the result is likely to be a beaner.

But if you are moving lively all the time you get no more than a glancing blow.

The strange thing about life is the enemies we make. Books on success will tell you all about that. In any kind of prominence, if you get any sort of money or place, somebody will throw stones at you.

It is a singular thing that no matter how many you have helped on your way up, no matter what your charity or good disposition, when you reach a certain height you always have the inferiority complex digging away and somebody is likely to take a shot at you.

Among the blessings of the poor it should not be omitted to state that the poor man has no enemies.

If I were rich I should travel all the time. I would never dare to have a mansion on Fifth avenue at which the poor could throw stones.

For, as a rule, it is not safe to mount a pedestal and assume a pose until you have been dead a good many years.

There are those who would honor General Grant and lay wreaths upon the tomb of the dead Wilson who would have been glad to put stumbling blocks in their way while living, or administer kicks behind.

If you are destined to great things, therefore, or to prominence, keep moving.

There is no place like somewhere else in the dictionary of the rich. This maxim is not only applicable in high circles but in low, for, be thou chaste as ice and pure as snow, we have it upon good authority that thou shalt not escape calumny.

The handsomer your face, therefore, and the more lovely your form, the more dangerous it is to sit down.

The more popular your appeal and the more your fellowmen gather around you to elect you to the Senate or other dignity, the more necessity there is to keep moving.

Most people fail, and the thing most dependable in the common mass is envy.

The only successful man is the man who does nothing to attract the attention of his fellows and keeps steadily out of the spotlight.

There is some line of poetry to the effect that the bolt which passes by the humble bush lays the proud monarch of the forest low.

RELIEF FOR THE FARMER
(From Santa Barbara News)

While Congress is debating over some measure for the relief of the farmer, the problem it is studying is slowly solving itself, so far as it can be solved.

The American farmer is looking for ways and means to meet the difficult situation that confronts him and he is finding them in the diversification of crops and in the use of his land to the production of those things that will find a ready market.

The forces of nature are conspiring against the wheat grower and all the signs are that prices will remain low for some time to come. Unless Congress acts in some way which will look well into the future, it might just as well follow its present policy and do nothing.

The reports of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, which come from all countries in the world, show that there will be an actual surplus of wheat when the new crop comes in which will be not less than 165,000,000 centals.

The prospects for the coming season point to a nearly normal crop. This means that there will be an actual carry-over of wheat for which there is no immediate market.

Under the circumstances, the bull in the wheat market will be a gambler in long c' ances during the coming months. Neither the farmer nor Congress should delude themselves or the public as to the actual conditions.

One consolation for the people of the entire country will be found in a probable decrease in the cost of living, unless somewhere along the line the agencies of manufacture and distribution are able to keep the public paying high prices for what the farmer sells at low figures.

TURNING OVER NEW LEAF
(From San Francisco Chronicle)

An election in most of the Central American countries has been nothing more nor less than another name for a revolution. Honduras has from time to time engaged in the prevailing pastime of voting for a president and when that formality was over it has thrown the ballots in the scrap heap and substituted bayonets and bullets. The president's office was never considered secure and the government of the country was really no government at all.

Honduras has been doing politics with guns for several months and there seemed to be no end to the strife until Uncle Sam offered to show the Central Americans the better way. Now all the warring factions have signed a treaty of peace, which provides for the holding of an election and a pledge to abide by it. There is to be no shooting up of the successful candidate and no revolution.

A real-honest-to-goodness election will be a new experience for these well-meaning but excitable people. After they have had one or two they may get to like them. They may not be so thrilling as the periodical revolution, but they are much safer for the population.

LETTING FANCY ROAM
(From Stockton Independent)

Anticipation and vicarious pleasures fill up a very large part of the lives of the poor and unfortunate—many of the joys and good fortune they long for are never realized and they enjoy them only through the printed word or the pictured story.

At the recent convention of librarians, Miss Provines of the Sacramento Library, brought out the interesting fact that prisoners preferred books of travel to any other reading. Within the confines of a narrow cell, in fancy the prisoner roams the face of the world. It has often been claimed that women who do the most mental, physical work, selected for reading, stories that deal with kings and queens and princesses.

Next to the saving grace of humor, a keen and lively imagination directed along proper channels, invests even the life that seems sordid and dreary with a satisfaction that compensates for many disadvantages. Who knows but that he who in fancy enjoys the material pleasures of life does not in many instances quaff as deep from the wells of delight as those whom the gods shower freely with the good things of life.

None are denied the pleasure of dreaming and sometimes the dreams mean so much that they come to seem as real as life itself.

The People —of— Anytown

Character Sketches

We made good-natured fun of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Grimes in Anytown. It is said that people of opposite natures should marry for happiness and congeniality. Mr. and Mrs. Grimes were the exact antithesis of each other in temperament and in appearance, and I presume they were as contented as the average married couple.

Horace Grimes was small, blonde and meek, while his wife, Sarah, was very large, dark, and aggressive and assertive in her manner. Horace never ventured an opinion when Sarah was around; if he did, she contradicted him. Sarah never hesitated to say openly in any company what she thought about any person or upon any subject, and she was always so positive in her assertions that no one took the trouble to oppose her, for this would have meant a long argument, in which she would have been the victor anyway.

The Grimes had lived on a farm near Anytown for years. They worked hard, laid by a competence for their old age, sold their farm and moved to Anytown. Horace was rather unhappy with nothing to do but Sarah had determined that they had worked enough so he had to content himself with what he called "puttering" about the place, sawing a little wood, shoveling snow in winter and mowing the lawn in summer, all under Sarah's direction. Horace took Sarah's orders as a matter of course and carried them out to the letter. If he slipped on the slightest detail he was rewarded with a tongue-lashing for Sarah was a shrew. And she was just as likely to rebuke Horace in public as in private.

It was really amusing to see Horace and Sarah together. Their natures were so apparent in their bearing. Sarah's attitude toward her husband out in public was that of a mother toward a small, naughty child whom she wished to protect and who, at the same time she was determined should be well-behaved.

Horace Grimes had no more freedom than if he had been behind the bars of the state penitentiary. I suppose at the time I knew them he had given up all hope of ever living his life his own way, if indeed he had ever had such a hope. It seems deplorable that one personality can so dominate another as to submerge and all but extinguish it. Horace, under other circumstances might have learned to use his will power and develop his weak nature. Sarah, if she had married some one stronger might have sar her aggressiveness toned down and been just as happy and more amiable. But there they were, tied together, and as I said before, they were apparently as contented as the average married couple.

Worth While Verse

BROKEN

The sanctuary made for me
Is broken, wall and roof and stone;
And where we stood, with oath to oath,
I stand alone.

For now that love's dear things have ceased,—
The past outlived is more than dead,—
The stained glass splinters into points,
And pierces red.

It is like solemn candles—out,
A crucifix that is all cross;
A bell whose silence rings and rings
To just a loss.

The rosary of faith to faith
Has broken slowly all its beads;
It is as if the soul of me
Disowned its creeds.

And nave and transept, arch and aisle,
Are ruins; yet my feet must go;
But where stood corner-stone and spire
I do not know.

The prayers and altars answer not
No more my name, no more my things;
Instead of bread and wine, they are Rememberings.

THE CASE OF JENNIE BRICE

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Copyright, 1924, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The story so far:

Mrs. Pitman, who tells the story, ran away from home to marry, and was never reconciled to her old Pittsburgh family, although she returned to her home town to live after she became a widow. She kept boarders in what was then lower Allegheny, where, because there were floods every year, rents were cheap. One March there was an unusually high flood. Miss Jennie Brice, as she was known on the stage, was having an unusually quarrelsome time with her husband, Mr. Ladley. Mrs. Pitman overheard them talking with a man, and Miss Brice said, "That's all very well, but what about that prying she-devil that runs the house?" That night the water rose high, and in the middle of the night another boarder, Mr Reynolds, woke Mrs. Pitman to say somebody had just rowed away in the boat she had tied to the stairs in the lower hall. Mrs. Pitman later saw Mr. Ladley returning. He said he had been out for medicine for his wife. Peter, the dog, finds a slipper of Mrs. Ladley's floating in the parlor, and later a big knife of Mrs. Pitman's, with the blade broken. Mr. Ladley offers to pay Mrs. Pitman for a pillow slip he says was burned with a cigarette, and says his wife really was not ill, but went away in the night. A benevolent old gentleman, rowing around to feed stranded animals, stops at Mrs. Pitman's, and offers to help her. His name is Holcombe. They discover that an onyx clock from the mantelpiece in Ladley's room is missing. They also find a blood-stained towel. Mr. Howell, a young newspaper man, comes to help Holcombe. Mrs. Pitman finds a slip of paper on which is written, "Rope, knife, shoe, towel. Horn—"

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

IX—THE POLICE HEAR THE STORY

It was after four when Mr. Holcombe had finished going over the rooms. I offered to make both the gentlemen some tea, for Mr. Pitman had been an Englishman, and I had got into the habit of having a cup in the afternoon, with a cracker or a bit of bread. But they refused. Mr. Howell said he had promised to meet a lady, and to bring her through the flooded district in a boat. He shook hands with me, and smiled at Mr. Holcombe.

"You will have to restrain his enthusiasm, Mrs. Pitman," he said. "He is a bloodhound on the scent. If his baying gets on your nerves, just send for me." He went down stairs and stepped into the boat. "Remember Holcombe," he called, "every well-constituted murder has two things: a motive and a corpse. You haven't either, only a mass of piffling details—"

"If everybody waited until he saw flames, instead of relying on the testimony of the smoke," Mr. Holcombe snapped, "what would the fire loss be?"

Mr. Howell poled his boat to the front door, and sitting down, prepared to row out.

"You are warned, Mrs. Pitman," he called to me. "If he doesn't find a body to fit the clues, he's quite capable of making one to fill the demand."

"Horn—" said Mr. Holcombe, looking at the slip again. "The tail of the 'n' is torn off—evidently only part of a word. Hornet, Horning, Horner—Mrs. Pitman will you go with me to the police station?"

I was more than axious to go. In fact, I could not bear the idea of staying alone in the house, with heaven only knows what concealed in the depths of that muddy flood. I got on my wraps again, and Mr. Holcombe rowed me out. Peter plunged into the water to follow, and had to be sent back. He sat on the lower step and whined. Mr. Holcombe threw him another piece of liver, but he did not touch it.

We rowed to the corner of Robinson street and Federal—it was before Federal street was raised above the flood level—and left the boat in charge of a boy there. And we walked to the police station. On the way Mr. Holcombe questioned me closely about the events of the morning, and I recalled the incident of the burned pillow-slip. He made a note of it at once, and grew very thoughtful.

He left me, however, at the police station. "I'd rather not appear in this, Mrs. Pitman," he said apologetically, "and I think better along my own lines. Not that I have anything against the police; they've done some splendid work. But this case takes imagination, and the police department deals with facts. We have no facts yet. What we need, of course, is to have the man detained until we are sure of our case."

He lifted his hat and turned away, and I went slowly up the steps to the police station. Living, as I had, in a neighborhood where the police, like the poor, are always with us, and where the CASE OF JENNIE BRICE Gal 2 visits of the patrol wagon are one of those familiar sights that no amount of repetition enabled any of us to treat with contempt, I was uncomfortable until I remembered that my grandfather had been one of the first mayors of the city, and that, if the patrol had been at my house more than once, the entire neighborhood would testify that my boarders were usually orderly.

At the door some one touched me on the arm. It was Mr. Holcombe again.

"I have been thinking it over," he said, "and I believe you'd better not mention the piece of paper that you found behind the washstand. They might say the whole thing is a hoax."

"Very well," I agreed, and went in.

The police sergeant in charge knew me at once, having stopped at my house more than once in flood-time for a cup of hot coffee.

"Sit down, Mrs. Pitman," he said. "I suppose you are still making the best coffee and doughnuts in the city of Allegheny? Well, what's the trouble in your district? Want an injunction against the river for trespass?"

"The river has brought me a good bit of trouble," I said. "I'm—I'm worried, Mr. Sergeant. I think a woman from my house has been murdered, but I don't know."

"Murdered," he said, and drew up his chair. "Tell me about it."

I told him everything, while he sat back with his eyes half closed, and his fingers beating a tattoo on the arm of his chair.

When I finished he got up and went into an inner room. He came back in a moment.

"I want you to come in and tell that to the chief," he said, and led the way.

All told, I repeated my story three times that afternoon, to the sergeant, to the chief of police, and the third time to both the others and two detectives.

The second time the chief made notes of what I said.

"Know this man Ladley?" he asked the others. None of them did, but they all knew of Jennie Brice, and some of them had seen her in the theatre.

"Get the theater, Tom," the chief said to one of the detectives.

Luckily, what he learned over the telephone from the theater corrobrated my story. Jennie Brice was not in the cast that week, but should have reported that morning (Monday) to rehearse the next week's piece. No message had been received from her, and a substitute had been put in her place.

Tomorrow—Lida on the Scene.

Glee Club Singers to Give Church Concert

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Men's Glee Club of the California Christian College of Los Angeles will give a program at the Central Christian church, corner of Colorado and Louise. Besides the ensemble work there will be several vocal solos, singing by a quartet and several numbers by the club orchestra. A silver offering will be taken.

A prejudice against the two-dollar bill exists in all states with the exception of those in New England, say government officials.

Commission Locates Thousands of Crippled Ducks on Victoria Island

SACRAMENTO, June 4.—A colony for lame ducks has been discovered in California.

According to announcement of the State Fish and Game Commission, thousands of ducks, crippled by hunters, have congregated in the sloughs of Victoria Island in the delta of the San Joaquin river.

The cripples, unable to stand the pace set by the able-bodied, have fallen behind and gradually formed a colony, where they obtain food by cooperative efforts.

An examination of the ducks at the island failed to reveal one not crippled, according to the Game Commission.

WORLD PEACE IS BIENNIAL THEME

President Sounds Keynote in Her Opening Address at Club Convention

probably be outlined during the convention. Mrs. Winter says "Home economics, a general standard of morality and world peace will play an important part in the convention. The time has come when we must devote our efforts to the building up of international relations so that civilized peoples will no longer be plunged into devastating wars that take from us the flower of our manhood and leave the participating countries appalled and debt-ridden."

Japanese Exclusion

As for the Japanese exclusion act Mrs. Winter states that the matter may be brought before the federation during the present convention. "Congress has passed the bill and apparently that is an end to it," she says, "but it may be that certain factions of the federation will bring it up for indorsement by the federation."

"Motion pictures I do not know. The platform of the federation is constructive and not destructive. We would much rather co-operate than criticize."

Much enthusiasm is being stimulated by the supporters of the three candidates to succeed Mrs. Winter. There are yellow Sherman badges, arm banners for Mrs. Jennings and the bitter root in rose and yellow for Mrs. Perham.

"What is the possibility of a dark horse?" Mrs. Winter was asked.

"Slight," was the answer. Only once in the history of the federation was one, nominated from the floor, elected.

President's Address

The Thursday morning session will begin at 9 o'clock. There will be the usual routine business with special reports. The final feature will be an address by Mrs. Winter on "President's Recommendations and Policies."

At 11 o'clock there will be a session directed by the department of legislation, followed by a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel.

There will be another luncheon at the Biltmore at the same time, given by the press department. Attending from Glendale will be Miss Eva Daniels, chairman of publicity for the Tuesday Afternoon club; Katherine V. Sinks, club editor of The Glendale Evening News; and Mary B. Darrow, La Crescenta correspondent for The Glendale Evening News.

The afternoon session will be devoted to press and publicity, with addresses by prominent men and women in the journalistic field.

At night Mrs. Winter will be the presiding officer. There will be addresses by Oswald Ryan of Anderson, Ind., by Princess Cantacuzene; and by Rupert Hughes.

CRITICS ACCLAIM NEW PLAY HOUSE

Forum Theatre Is Last Word In Its Line; 'America' Is First Picture

Acclaimed by critics and public alike as one of the sensations of theatredom, and as one of the most interesting sights of all Southern California, the new Forum theatre in Los Angeles, has already, in the brief period since its opening, established itself as a magnet that is drawing a continually increasing stream of Californians and tourists. D. W. Griffith's "America," the latest production of the great director, has proven a fitting attraction with which to introduce the new theatre to the public.

Of the Roman type of architecture, the Forum, located at Pico and Norton streets, in Los Angeles, is one of the most beautiful buildings in the state. Erected upon a slight hilltop, it is visible for miles, and the massive pillars supporting the outside front balcony are an inspiring sight. The interior, a gorgeous triumph of the architect and the decorator's art, transports the visitor into another world—the land of ancient Rome in all her pomp and glory.

Absorbing Drama

Mr. Griffith's production, "America," hailed by critics as his greatest achievement, is a romance of Revolutionary days, weaving an absorbing tale of love, drama and humor against the most colorful and interesting background in history. Carol Dempster, Lionel Barrymore, Louis Wolheim, Neil Hamilton and scores of other favorites score personal triumphs in their respective parts. The production, for strength of a story, bigness of settings and ensembles, and smoothness of construction, outclasses all previous Griffith triumphs.

An inpirational prologue, employing fifty people, is used to introduce the picture presentation. The Forum Symphony Players, under the direction of Harry H. Silverman, give a musical program of unusual strength. Two artists of national reputation —Julius K. Johnson, organist, and Charles Laird, basso—contribute recitals. The performance, from beginning to end, is a triumph of artistry and entertainment.

Two features that are proving decidedly popular are the roof cafe, for dining and dancing, and the clubrooms in the basement.

YOUNG EDITORS THANK THE NEWS

Publishers of Paper Printed for Pioneer Notchers Appreciate Help

The Glendale Evening News is always happy to receive expressions of appreciation from any resident of Glendale, and an expression that is highly valued appears in the Pioneer News, published by Glendale boys of the Pioneer Notchers.

On the first page of the Pioneer News, issued on Saturday, May 31, is the following recognition: "The editors of this paper wish to thank The Glendale Evening News for the articles they have been running in that paper, complimenting all the boys that have been helping to make this paper a success."

Give Life Sketches

These ambitious young journalists have issued five numbers of their first volume in a most creditable manner. Things of interest to boys of the Pioneer group are found on every page and the outsider is sure to find something worth while in glancing over the little paper.

In the current issue is a sketch of George Washington, "The Patriot General," the first article to be published in the Pioneer News on great men of our country. In the next issue there will be a story of Abraham Lincoln.

The next issue will be the final one until after vacation days.

GIVES RULES TO FOLLOW IN TAX REDUCTION CASE

Must Pay Next Installment Before June 15, Says Revenue Collector

Southern California taxpayers will receive an immediate reduction in income taxes under the new revenue bill which was signed by President Coolidge.

Under telegraphic instructions received from Washington recently by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell the reduction of 25 per cent on taxes payable this year on 1923 income, will take effect with the second installment which must be paid on or before June 15.

Rules Given

Collector Goodcell announced the following simple rules to guide taxpayers in taking the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction:

"If at the time you filed your income tax return you paid three-fourths of the amount of tax reported no further payment will be due.

"If at the time you filed your return you paid one-half of the amount of the tax reported no further payment will be due until September 15.

"If at the time you filed your return you paid only one-fourth of the amount of tax reported, you must pay on or before June 15 one-half of the amount paid by you when you filed your return.

"The main point to be borne in mind is that one-half of the tax due from you this year must be paid on or before June 15.

"In other words if the total tax due on your return was $120 and you paid $30 on March 15, you would have to pay $15 on June 15, $22.50 on September 15 and a final payment of $22.50 on December 15. This would give you the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction and would conform to the procedure provided for by law.

"Where taxes have been paid in full refunds or credits will be made in accordance with a procedure to be announced later."

The procedure outlined supersedes that announced recently by Collector Goodcell.

Collector Goodcell has received telegraphic information from the commissioner of internal revenue to the effect that in view of the recent action of Attorney General Stone, withdrawing the Daugherty opinion stating that income from community property is divisible for the state of California and action relative to refunds on both income and estate taxes will be held in abeyance pending further consideration by the attorney general.

Collector Goodcell advised taxpayers to protect their interests by filing waivers for the 1918 tax prior to June 15, 1924, and claims for refund before April 1, 1925.

With reference to taxes paid from 1919 to 1922 inclusive the collector said that claims for refund could be filed if the taxpayer so desired. As for 1923 taxes Collector Goodcell advised that no action be taken until instructions were received from Washington.

with the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to meet with the board next Tuesday night and discuss the matter in detail.

The delay in the sewer construction program was touched on by President W. E. Hewitt, who stated he had been informed by City Manager V. B. Stone that Los Angeles and Glendale have not yet succeeded in getting together on the necessary ordinances, and also that the question of rights of way is still to be settled in a few instances. With the erection of the large buildings that are now contemplated in Glendale, Mr. Hewitt felt that some action should be taken to advance the matter to completion as rapidly as possible.

Secretary E. F. Sanders read a letter from the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association endorsing the Chamber of Commerce and the work it is planning to do.

The board endorsed the request made by City Manager Stone for $100,000 of the proceeds of the state gasoline tax, to be expended on the improvements of the city streets. Los Angeles, it was stated, has been allowed $125,000 for the improvement of San Fernando road from the Glendale city limits south.

Members of the board will attend a luncheon at the Tuesday Afternoon club next Monday when Rex C. Kelley will present the preliminary plans for the drive for $275,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building in Glendale.

MEDICAL GRIP STOLEN

Dr. C. W. Taylor reported to the police yesterday the theft of a medical grip from his car which was parked on Maryland near Wilson. In addition to expensive medicines, the grip contained valuable instruments, according to his report.

LA FOLLETTE TO ENTER CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY

New York Journalist Reveals Wisconsin Solon's Plan for Coming Race

By DAVID LAWRENCE,
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Robert M. LaFollette, senior senator from Wisconsin, has decided definitely to make the race for the presidency as an Independent irrespective of whether William G. McAdoo is named on the Democratic ticket or Calvin Coolidge on the Republican ticket, for he has given up hope of "boring from within" the two old line parties to secure the enactment of a Progressive program.

Mr. LaFollette believes Congress should not adjourn now but should stay in session all summer if necessary to accomplish agricultural relief and other needed reforms and urged his followers in the Senate and House to block adjournment so far as is possible and to make their record clear on this point.

Plan Organization

These are the opinions expressed by Oswald Garrison Villard, of New York City, editor of The Nation, the Liberal weekly, after a conference with Senator LaFollette.

Mr. Villard goes back to New York to complete the organization of a committee to be affiliated with the conference for progressive political action which is to meet in Cleveland on July 4th for the purpose of nominating Senator LaFollette for the presidency.

"The friends of Mr. LaFollette," said Mr. Villard, "are convinced that in taking the stand that he does, he is far less actuated by any effect it may have upon his own personal fortunes than by his desire to give the voters of the United States an alternative to voting for either of the old parties which we deem hopelessly corrupt. We feel that the great need of the country today is a progressive political party with a clear-cut program of reform much along the lines of those urged by Woodrow Wilson in his first campaign for the presidency when he called for radical reform and declared that the President of the United States therefore had to go hat in hand to Wall street for orders.

Candidacy Certain

"I believe that Mr. LaFollette finds himself in the same position as Senator Morris, of Nebraska, who, it will be remembered, did not wish to run again for the Senatorship because, after twenty-five years of experience, in Washington, he had come to the conclusion that it was hopeless to 'buck the system' as it functions in Washington. Mr. LaFollette has tried for more than thirty years to reform his party from within. He has never bolted the Republican party and did not leave it in 1912 when Roosevelt cut loose. It is therefore a tremendous wrench for him to do what he has said that he will do if the two national conventions do not afford him the ground for believing that they mean to purge themselves in dead earnest. Since there is no likelihood whatever of the conventions doing this, I cannot escape the belief that he will announce his candidacy as soon as the conference for progressive political action has met.

"I am frankly astounded at the offers of support Mr. LaFollette has had for an independent movement, not only from important labor organizations but from men who were ardent followers of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912. I do not think it will be hard to organize a non-partisan committee in New York composed of people of varying political viewpoints who feel that they must have a ticket that they can vote for without apologies. Of course, people who feel this way are not thinking merely about 1924. We want to see a permanent organization come into being which shall elevate the whole tone of our political life and give us a new-old leadership along the lines of the progressivism of the Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson of 1912. It would be a great misfortune, of course, if out of this movement, there should be nothing definite left on which to build in the years to come. No one can deny that there is no essential difference whatsoever between the Republican and Democratic parties as they are constituted today. It is just like the fight over the income taxes—a question whether they should be fixed at 30 or 32 or 40 per cent and not a difference of principle or policy. The same is true of the tariff situation today. As the South becomes a land of manufacturers, more and more Democrats are going over to the protective theory so that the former distinction between the two parties along tariff lines is rapidly being obliterated. What other issues differentiate them? None."

Mr. Villard was asked if he knew who would be considered for the vice-presidency of the La Follette ticket, and he said probably an eastern labor man but the matter is being very seriously debated because of the possibility, remote though it may be, of the electoral contest going after March 4 next, into the Senate, in which case the upper house must choose from the two leading vice-presidential candidates. He believes it is impossible to forecast how many states LaFollette will carry but he is surprised at the number of politicians and journalists who say to him that the Wisconsin senator will capture at least nine or ten states.

Because of the close friendship between Mr. Villard and Senator LaFollette, the foregoing may be considered significa...

CLEVELAND ALL SET TO HANDLE BIG CELEBRATION

Arrange Elaborate Plans to Care for Republican Visitors Next Week

By GUY T. ROCKWELL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

CLEVELAND, O., June 4.—Cleveland is all set to entertain the Republican National Convention—and the nation. Provision has been made to accommodate 40,000 or 50,000 visitors and millions more will be able to "attend" the convention and hear the speaking and cheering by radio.

Deliberations of the great Republican pow-wow will be relayed to fourteen broadcasting stations throughout the country, and there put on the ether so that owners of radio sets in the most remote corners of the country will have an opportunity for the first time in history, to listen in on a national political convention.

Public auditorium, where the convention will be held, can accommodate 12,000 persons. Loud speakers, which are being set up outside, will make it possible for 100,000 more to follow the doings within.

Every Minute Filled

From the instant of the arrival of the first special trains on Sunday, June 8, to the departure of delegates Thursday night, there will be something every minute. One of the high spots of the entertainment will be a fireworks display on the lake front, which will feature sky pictures of President Coolidge and other Republican notables.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the women visitors. The committee will station hostesses at each hotel who will act as information bureaus for the women guests.

On Monday, a reception and musicale at Shaker Heights Country club has been arranged for the women while golf and caucuses will occupy the attention of the men.

Theodore E. Burton, temporary chairman, is slated to deliver his keynote speech at the opening of the convention on Tuesday. An automobile ride and golf has been arranged for the afternoon with a reception in the evening.

Nominate Thursday

Platform adoption is scheduled for 1 p. m. Wednesday. At 2 p. m. a lake ride has been scheduled, followed by the fireworks display in the evening.

Nomination of Calvin Coolidge is scheduled for noon Thursday. A press golf tournament at the country club has been arranged under the auspices of the Washington Press club.

For the benefit of guests, a brokerage firm is opening a branch office in one of the leading hotels for the duration of the convention.

JEWISH NATION'S COLLAPSE, TOPIC

Bible Students Trace Course Of Israel's Downfall And Captivity

"The captivity and collapse of Judah and the decline and fall of the Jewish nation" was the subject of study by the Men's Bible Study class of the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning, and the teacher, Rev. Edward Hoskyn, drew from the lesson many pertinent applications to the conditions surrounding the Christian church and society in the United States at the present time.

Judea was said to have been at the very peak of its popularity and power during the reign of Solomon, and the downfall of the nation was attributed to the entangling alliances of Solomon with foreign nations. The splendor of Solomon's court had attracted to him all the kingdoms of the world, and Solomon sought to establish himself for all time by intermarriage with the families of other rulers. This resulted in setting up an establishment with hundreds of wives and thousands of concubines.

These women came from idolatrous peoples, and to please these Solomon, who had been chosen of God to perpetuate the worship of Jehovah, found himself setting up golden images of Baal in his own household. The teacher declared that it had evidently been the design of Jehovah from the first covenant made with Abraham to so firmly establish the worship of the true and living God that this worship should continue for all time. The Jews were the chosen people, and we are indebted today for the Christian religion to the Jewish people. But then, as now, God would not permit the worship of idols to continue, and the penalty they paid for forgetting God was their fall and captivity and slavery to the Babylonians.

"And every nation will fall that does not put God at its head," said the speaker. "When the children of Israel were oppressed they were penitent and worshiped Jehovah, but when they were rich and powerful they forgot God."

This was said to be the danger in this republic. Prosperity was said to be more dangerous than poverty in our own nation at this time, and the tendency to worship wealth and power, both in social and political life of the people in America, was declared to be leading millions of men and women away from their Christian

Wide Streets Needed
Tearing Up Pavements
The Public Indicted
Weller Runs Again

By Gil A. Cowan

Widening of Colorado boulevard, Wilson avenue and other crosstown streets will be the greatest step in the making of a metropolis of what we already have established here in the way of the fastest growing city in America.

Wide streets are essential to give concourse to the ebb and flow of traffic. Narrow streets immediately choke the business life of any community in this day of motorcars.

And not alone should the streets be wide, but well paved. They should stand the hammering of a decade or more without showing any signs of wear. They should not be opened for water, gas, power or telephone lines after they are once constructed.

One of the most wasteful and outrageous habits of public utilities is to tear up paving. They have done so in Glendale and every other community. When we criticise one we include all, so there is nothing personal or particular, but for a fact the person who orders the tearing out of paving should be penalized so heavily that the repairs would be assuredly better than the street itself.

Glendale needs to inaugurate a campaign for widening Glendale boulevard from Second street in Los Angeles to Mount Verdugo, its terminus.

The traffic on this particular thoroughfare has become so congested at certain hours of the day that a 90-foot boulevard would be none too much.

However, it may be difficult to make Los Angeles see the wisdom of so doing.

The grand jury will consider the case of the Hope Development school burning and twenty-three lives being lost.

There is the customary official action—after the disaster has occurred when public sentiment is to be satiated with official sop.

In the first place, the school building was no fit place for subnormal children. Supervisor Wright was aware of that fact on his official visit to the home only two weeks prior to the fire.

But as Margaret Sirch, Los Angeles representative of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, points out, there was no other place for them.

Another more dangerous fire trap had been closed and many given orders as to how conditions might be remedied.

In other words, the very thing that happened was anticipated, but nothing effective done.

There is a reason why, too. We are too anxious about the schools for those who are not subnormal to give much thought to the "half-baked" as they are commonly called.

We are too interested in reducing taxes to spend the money necessary for the indigents.

In other words, we are too self-centered, as a prosperous people.

And there matters stand—the public indicted.

It is to be expected that some remedial legislation will be passed. The next legislature undoubtedly will hear of the fire. But will they hear of conditions at Patton insane asylum where it is necessary to "turn out" batches of "half-baked" inmates to make room for the more violent?

There are certain needs which the state must meet, just as it met the foot and mouth disease. These must not be overlooked by the legislature.

Frank C. Weller again is a candidate from this district, for state representative. The writer had the pleasure of watching his work at Sacramento last session.

Attorney Weller is capable, competent and clever. Perhaps he is not as aggressive as some might desire, yet he is successful in putting across those measures which are necessary.

But if aggressiveness means only noise we are glad that the local representative is conservative.

And that's that. Which is all.

Detective Offers Reward for Return Of Boys' Lost Toys

There is grief in the family of Lieut. W. J. Boyle, head of the local detective bureau of the police department, for somebody stole a kiddie-kar and wagon belonging to Billy, Jr., his 2½ year old son, last night.

Lieut. Boyle has tried out his talent in an effort to find the culprit, but all to no avail, so now he offers a reward for the return of the two playthings to 347 West Maple street. He states that no questions will be asked.

LEGAL POINT IS BAR TO PASSAGE OF AMENDMENT

Change In Club's By-Laws to Be Considered at Next Weekly Meeting

Lost in the maze of parliamentary procedure, Tuesday Afternoon club women failed to arrive yesterday at at any definite decision as to the proposed change to the by-laws making a return to the bi-monthly meeting program.

According to the by-laws of the organization, proposed revision of by-laws must be submitted to the club body two weeks before final action is taken.

Some weeks ago when nominating ballots were mailed out before the annual election, questionnaires were inclosed asking opinion on the plan of meeting every Tuesday in the month. Reports state that replies received showed a unanimous desire to return to the bi-monthly schedule.

Postpone Action

So a revision to the by-laws was drafted, read two weeks ago and the stage was all set for a final vote at the meeting yesterday.

However, with over 170 club members present to cast votes the desired end was not attained and the action postponed until the next meeting of the club next Tuesday.

Yesterday's club day began with a luncheon, attended by a large company of members and guests. It was interesting to note that among the guests were several delegates to the biennial in Los Angeles.

The luncheon tables were prettily arranged with blue corn flowers and yellow cosmos.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, was master of ceremonies, introducing as speakers Mrs. May Smith of Ontario, national vice chairman of flags and state chairman of flags for the Daughters of the American Revolution, who spoke on flag etiquette; Mrs. Florence Dobinson, who spoke on "What the Future Drama Promises"; and Mrs. J. J. Carter, who told of her work in connection with Community Service and the Hollywood bowl.

Member Is Honored

The club women were interested to learn from Mrs. Smith that Mrs. S. O. Leppelman, patriotic chairman of the club, has been recently appointed vice state chairman of flags for the California D. A. R.

Reports of the past year were given by Mrs. Leppelman, and from Mrs. J. M. Eyerick, chairman of decoration.

Announcement was made that a collection of paintings by John H. Gilbert of Los Angeles, are hung in the banquet room.

During the afternoon session annual reports were given by Mrs. Homer D. Lockwood, chairman of hospitality, who stated that $182 has been realized on food sales; by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, on courtesy; and Mrs. C. J. Newcomb historian.

Fete Nets $594

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Glendale's "Financial Wizard" again received applause when she announced that $594 had been realized on the garden fete, and then presented the treasurer with $1,000 made during the month of May.

During the meeting Mrs. Daniel Campbell paid just tribute to Pearl Keller, who is presenting pupils of her studio of dancing and dramatic art at a recital Saturday night in Los Angeles, as a benefit for the Orthopedic hospital.

"Miss Keller has always been most gracious in supplying programs for the club," said Mrs. Campbell. "This is her club and we are proud of her. She has the real community spirit and Glendale should stand behind her in this very worthy cause she is helping."

Entertainment of the afternoon was the presentation of the three act comedy, "A Southern Cinderella" under the direction of Mrs. W. K. Chambers of the Matinee Musical club of Los Angeles.

Talented Cast

Mrs. Chambers' ability as a character actress is well known throughout Southern California, and yesterday she was assisted by a most talented cast. Appearing with her were Mrs. Ella Lambley Orr, Miss Bernice Foley, Mrs. Warren Quick, Mrs. Julia Endelman, Miss Florence E. Dean and Mrs. Clarence Bowman Kerr.

In connection with the play old fashioned songs and southern melodies were given delightfully by Irene Palmer.

MISSIONARY MEETING

Members of the Christian and Missionary Alliance are holding their monthly all-day meeting at the Gospel Tabernacle church at South Louise and East Chestnut streets. The speaker this afternoon was Rev. George Davis of Los Angeles.

At the meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight there will be an address by Rev. Van Eddings of South America.

PUPILS IN PLAY

The pupils of Harold L. Brewster's dramatic class put on a one-act play, "Co-operation," in the Broadway High school auditorium this morning, at a third period assembly. It was a pay assembly, well attended, the proceeds going to the Girls' league, under whose auspices the playlet was given.

SEWER ADVISORY BODY IS CHOSEN

Five Citizens Are Named To Give Advice to City Councilmen

January 8. The council at that time promised to select a committee of representative citizens to assist in putting the project through, and the names of many businessmen have been considered for some time past.

Representative Body

All five of the committeemen are well known in this city and enjoy the confidence of the people. All branches of the work, financial, legal and practical, can be expertly scrutinized by one of the appointees who is a specialist in that line, and whose advise should prove very benficial to the councilmen. The date for their first joint meeting with the council has not been set.

The council remained at the city hall last night until 12 o'clock going over the budget for the coming year. Many items were considered for no definite action was taken on any of the estimated receipts or expenditures.

Another meeting, the date of which is not yet determined, will be held to discuss the budget again.

The council was unable to arrive at any satisfactory date for a joint meeting with the traffic commission. Their report is still on the table and has yet to be gone over with the traffic body.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CARPET TACKS

BEDTIME—FRI, MAY 30

"Uncle Wiggily, if you want to do anything while I am out today," said Nurse Jane to the bunny gentleman on a Friday morning, "you might pull the tacks out of the parlor carpet and spread it on the grass."

"Oh, ho!" laughed the rabbit uncle. "Thank you! And I suppose, after I pull the tacks out of the carpet I can put the carpet out on the grass and beat the dust out."

"You may if you wish," answered Nurse Jane, "but I was goin gto have the circus elephant come in and beat the carpet with his trunk. However, if you you to do it—"

"Oh, no," said Uncle Wiggily quickly, "I don't want to. Taking the tacks out will be enough for me."

"You'll find the tack pullers on the shelf over the cellar stairs," explained the muskrat lady, "and after you take the tacks out of the carpet you may go adventuring, if you wish."

"I guess I'll wish to all right, after pulling tacks," said the bunny. "It's hard work. Where are you going, Janie?"

"Down to the seven and eight cent store to get a new pair of diamond ear-rings," answered the muskrat lady, and away she hopped, while Uncle Wiggily, slowly twinkling his pink nose, went to look for the tack lifter, or puller. He found two of them on the shelf over the cellar stairs.

"Hum! Two tack pullers," murmured Mr. Longears. "I suppose Nurse Jane thinks I can use one in each paw and work twice as fast. Or maybe she put two here in case one breaks. Or perhaps she thinks some of my friends, like Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear, or Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman, will happen along and help me. Well, anyhow, I'll take one puller and start to get the tacks up. After that I'll go adventuring."

Uncle Wiggily began pulling out the tacks, using one of the lifters.

"Snap!" Out flew one of the sharp pointed little nails that held the carpet to the floor. "Snap!" Out flew another tack.

"It's rather fun, after all," said Uncle Wiggily. But he had not pulled many tacks when he began to get a pain in his back. Then his rheumatism began to hurt. "Ouch! Smouch! This isn't as much fun as I thought," murmured the rabbit. He sat down in the middle of the floor and looked out of the window. He saw Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the piggie boys, rooting around in a field.

The little pigs, with their funny, strong, rubbery noses would lift up stones and look underneath for sweet grass roots and other good things to eat. Stone after stone they flipped up and turned over.

"Why!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "It's just as if they were pulling tacks! It's the same motion! Ah, I have an idea! I'll fasten a tack lifter to the piggie boys' noses and get them in here. They can take the tacks out of the carpet much better than I can, and I'll pay them for it."

So the rabbit gentleman called out of the window, asking the two little pigs to come in.

"I'll give you each ten cents if you pull the tacks from the carpet for me," said Mr. Longears. "Will you?"

"We'd do anything for you, Uncle Wiggily," grunted Floppy.

"But the heads of the tacks are sharp and might cut our noses," said Curly.

"I'll fasten tack pullers on your noses," said the bunny.

"That will be fine!" cried the piggie boys. So a tack lifter was tied on Floppy's nose, with strong cord, and another on his brother's nose. Then the little pigs went around the edges of the carpet, sticking the pullers under the edges of the tacks and lifting them out.

"Snap! Snap! Snap!" went the tacks as they flew out.

"We're having fun!" grunted Curly.

"And we're earning money to buy lollypops!" squealed Floppy. "Oh, lollypops are good to eat," he joyfully sang.

"So are Uncle Wiggily's ears!" growled a voice, and the rabbit gentleman, who was resting himself in a corner, jumped up. The Fuzzy Fox started to jump in the window.

"Hold on! None of that!" grunted Floppy, and with the lifter on his nose he pulled out a sharp tack.

"Zing!" the tack sailed through the air and struck the Fox on the nose.

"Now it's my turn!" shouted Curly. He, too, pulled out a tack, and this, also, struck the Fox on the nose, pricking him hard.

"All right! I've had enough tacks for today!" howled the Fox, and away he ran, not nibbling the bunny's ears after all.

Then Curly and Floppy laughed and pulled out the remainder of the tacks and Uncle Wiggily gave them ten cents each. And when Nurse Jane came home, she said:

"Well, Wiggy, you got all the tacks out, I see!"

"Oh, yes," answered the bunny, indifferent like. "It wasn't hard the way I did it!" and he whistled, smiled and twinkled his pink nose.

And if the little sardine doesn't spatter olive oil on the salt cellar steps so the sugar cookie slips down, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's lollypop party.

He began to get a pain in his back.

Poems That Live

SPRING

(From "In Memoriam")

Now fades the last long streak of snow,
Now burgeons every maze of quick
About the flowering squares, and thick
By ashen root the violets grow.

Now rings the woodland loud and long,
The distance takes a livelier hue,
And drowned in yonder living blue
The lark becomes a sightless song.

Now dance the lights on lawn and lea,
The flocks are whiter down the vale,
And milkier every milky sail
On winding stream or distant sea;

Where now the seaman pipes, or dives
In yonder greening gleam, and fly
The happy birds that change their sky
To build and brood, that live their lives

From land to land; and in my breast
Spring wakens too: and my regret
Becomes an April violet,
And buds and blossoms like the rest.

—Alfred Tennyson.

Elopes With New Hubby

MRS. CHARLES M. WARNER, nee MARGARET WALSH, eloped with her present husband twelve days after her parents had had her marriage with BENJAMIN TYNDALE II annulled.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Just twelve days after the marriage of Margaret "Peggy" Walsh to Benjamin Tyndale II was finally annulled through action of her irate parents, the wealthy Willard Walshes of Park avenue, pretty Peggy eloped and became the bride of Charles M. Warner, heir to the millions of his father, Grove Warner, sugar magnate.

Society is abuzz with the news, for the first marriage of Peggy was an elopement, too, and it attracted a lot of attention because her school chum, Katherine Wheeler, ran off at the same time and married Thomas J. Tilney.

That was fifteen months ago. Last January her parents filed action to annul the marriage. Two days less than two weeks after the annulment became final, Peggy and young Warner went to the city hall, the ceremony said and went home to tell their amazed parents.

By GRACE DESCHAMPS
For International News Service.

BOSTON, Mass., June 4.—The thousands of men and women and boys and girls who file into prison cells from the courtrooms of Massachusetts to take a number and lose their identity as citizens are to be given their chance to "come back" next September.

The state of Massachusetts, pioneer among states, will place a bet on her wayward citizens to the tune of $75,000 a year, to find out what's wrong with the jailbird.

The grievances against society that fill the head of the resentful man or woman who marches off to do a "turn," packing a mental brickbat against vested authority, are going to be taken out and aired.

If squalor and hunger and too much "booze" filled the homes of the people who plead guilty every day to thievery, the state is going to turn the spotlight upon those pre-disposing factors and help the thief to get a happier slant on society.

If physical infirmities led to the mental twist which prompted the prisoner to become a criminal, the state will do its best to remove the cause.

The motives behind the endless string of crimes which have filled the institutions of the state with young and old offenders will be unearthed and exposed to the scrutiny of trained psychologists, psychiatrists and physicians.

While the rest of the country watches the experiment with interest, Massachusetts will be prepared to contribute illuminating facts to the scanty information already gathered about the causes of crime.

Beginning September 1, an exhaustive examination of prisoners, extending throughout their entire capabilities, will be instituted in the prisons and reform institutions of the state, according to a plan outlined by Dr. George M. Kline, of the State Department of Mental Diseases, at a conference of prison psychiatrists and educators held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Civic League at the Sherborn Reformatory.

A yearly expenditure of $75,000 will be entailed in the enterprise. A psychiatrist, a psychologist, physicians and a clerical staff make up the first machinery. Clinics in Worcester, Springfield, one in Essex County, one on the Cape and two in Boston are the tentative plans of Dr. Kline.

Drug and alcohol addicts are on the increase, Dr. W. T. Hanson, head of the Bridgewater State Farm, declared, in announcing that the "reduction" treatment of addicts had been eliminated at Bridgewater.

"The drug addict comes down to us in nine cases out of ten because he wants to get away from the police or because he has no money to buy drugs and thinks the 'reduction' treatment will be better than no 'dope' at all," Dr. Hanson declared.

"We give them the 'cold turkey treatment now, and the men will tell you that it's no harder than the 'reduction' treatment. Since we have dropped the reduction method our admissions have dropped greatly.

"Not one addict in a thousand really wants to be cured. There's a yellow streak in every addict—they'll tell you so themselves—and they don't want to undergo the suffering that goes at first with the removal of the drug."

Sane criminals feign insanity to obtain committment to the State farm, according to Dr. Hanson, because they have heard that the food is better and that there is less work to do.

THE WORLD AND DISCOVERIES

Watt and his steam engine were laughed at; and the world shook its head and called Graham Bell a crazy-man when he first offered it the telephone, just as it did when Marconi prophesied that all over the eath persons would communicate with each other without wires.

It took medieval Europe years to accept the English William Harvey's discovery of the circulation of the blood. Before his death, however, it was glad to admit that it was as it remains, the greatest of the discoveries of physiology, and its whole honor belongs to Harvey.

In giving his epoch-making treatsie to the world in 1616, Harvey accompanied it with a dedication to a dear friend in which he felt it necessary to say:

"True philosophers who are only eager for truth and knowledge, never regard themselves as already so thoroughly informed, but that they would welcome further information from whomsoever and from wheresoever it may come; nor are they so narrow-minded as to imagine any of the arts or sciences transmitted to us by the ancients, in such a state of forwardness or completeness, that nothing is left for the ingenuity and industry of others.

"On the contrary, very manly maintain that all we know is still infinitely less than all that still remains unknown; nor do others' precepts in such wise that they lose their liberty, and cease to give credence to the conclusions of their proper senses. Neither do they swear such fealty to their mistress Antiquity, that they openly and in sight of all, deny and desert their friend Truth.

"But even as they see that the credulous and vain are disposed at the first blush to accept and believe everything that is proposed to them, so do they observe that the dull and unintellectual are indisposed to see what lies before their eyes, and even deny the light of the noonday sun.

"They teach us in our course of philosophy to sedulously avoid the fables of the poets and the fancies of the vulgar, as the false conclusions of the sceptics. And then the studious and good and true, never suffer their minds to be warped by the passions of hatred and envy, which unfit men duly to weigh the arguments that are advanced in behalf of truth or to appreciate the proposition that is even fairly demonstrated.

"Neither do they think it unworthy of them to change their opinion if truth and undoubted demonstration require them to do so. They do not esteem it discreditable to desert error, though sanctioned by the highest antiquity, for they know full well that to err, to be deceived, is human; that many things are discovered by accident and that many may be learned indifferently from any quarter, by an old man from a youth, by a person of understanding from one of inferior capacity."

Harvey winds up his dedication: "I profess both to learn and to teach anatomy not from books but from dissections; not from the position or philosophers but from the fabric of nature and then because I do not think it right or proper to strive to take from the ancients any honor that is their due, nor yet to dispute with the moderns, and enter into controversy with those who have excelled in anatomy and been my teachers. I would not charge with willful falsehood any one who was sincerely anxious for truth, not to lay it to any one's door as a crime that he had fallen into error. I avow myself the partisan of truth alone; and I am indeed say that I have used all my endeavors, bestowed all my pains on an attempt to produce something that should be agreeable to the good, profitable to the learned, and useful to letters."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D.
Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Caolries

BLIND STYES AND CHALAZIONS

Not long ago I told you that you might be able to abort a stye if you began to massage it when you first noticed the tingling and smarting which usually precedes its formation. This massage is best done with one per cent yellow oxide of mercury. You can purchase this ointment in little tubes at any drug store.

If it happens that you have not succeeded in massaging the stye early enough to abort it, then hot applications of boracic acid solutions—one teaspoonful of boracic acid to a cup of hot water—should be used frequently, every two hours if possible.

Do not squeeze the stye until it comes to a head, and then squeeze very gently, because severe squeezing lowers the resistance of the tissues still further, making the stye worse. If possible, it is best to have a stye opened by a physician as soon as it begins to show the pus point. This will furnish an outlet for the pus and will save two or three days further swelling and pain. But if you cannot have the incision made then you must wait until there is further destruction of the tissue and more pus is formed—or, in other words, until it is "ripe."

Bathe the eye in hot boracic acid solution at least twice a day, and continue for a month or longer, to kill off any loitering germs. It is well to use the one per cent yellow oxide of mercury and massage the lids with it also, perhaps once a day.

Of course, if there are any general systematic, or local eye disorders, they must be corrected.

Internal Styes

The internal styes are sometimes called blind styes. Instead of being an infection of the eyelash glands as in the ordinary stye, they are an infection of the glands known as the Meibomian glands.

These Meibomian are larger oil glands in the tissue of the lids. They are called Meibomian from the man who first wrote about them. It is quite common in the sciences, this naming of structures after the men who discovered them. It is complimentary to the discoverers and gives them deserved credit, but it is terribly hard on the student who has to remember the ofttimes unpronounceable names.

These infections of the Meibomian glands are called blind styes because they do not point externally on the skin, but on the inner side of the lid where they cannot be seen. However, the swelling will show on the outside of the lid. They are just as painful, and perhaps more painful than the external styes, for they irritate the covering of the eyeball terribly.

Sometimes these blind styes will burst spontaneously but most often they have to be opened. They are caused by the same ever-present staphlococci pus germs that are on the skin and that cause the external styes and boils and pimp'es when there is lowered resistance.

Chalazions

A chalazion is also an infection of these Meibomian glands, but the infection in this case does not seem to be due to the virulent and quick pus forming germs. It is not known whether there is any specific germ that causes chalazions but, whatever they are, they produce a slower and more chronic inflammatory condition.

A small lump will begin on the lid and slowly increase until perhaps it is the size of a pea. Sometimes this will last for months and sometimes years. These chalazions do not seem to cause anywhere near the disturbance that the acute infections do, and oftimes a physician is sought simply on account of the disfigurement.

The operation consists in pulling the lid back, making a little cut in the mucous membrane and evacuating the contents. Usually the cavity has to be scraped out to get the diseased tissue also. This is done under local anesthesia and is not at all a dangerous operation in the skilful hands of an experienced surgeon or eye specialist.

Kidnaped In Love Tragedy

"R. T. CLARK" (left) claims to be FREDDIE LIEB, who was stolen by a woman fifty-three years ago in revenge for a slight she claims was placed on her by the boy's father, PROF. WILLIAM H. LIEB, who spent his life searching for his lost son.

JOPLIN, Mo., June 4.—A pawn of spurned love, Freddie Leib has come back to life after 53 years.

The little boy who was kidnaped from Quincy, Ill., in 1871, now appears as a man who contends he is the son of Prof. William H. Leib, a widely known music master, who spent his life and fortune seeking the son who was stolen from him.

Freddie Leib, or Robert T. Clark, as he previously had been known, appeared here several days ago. Friends of his father immediately saw the marked resemblance.

Woman Kidnaper Lives

Clark read in a newspaper of the death here of Professor Leib. The story of the kidnaping of little Freddie and his father's frantic efforts to find him was told. A picture of the child, taken shortly before his disappearance, was reproduced. Mr. Clark found an exact likeness of the photograph among his possessions, which, he said, was given him by his foster parents. He got in touch with relatives of Professor Leib, he says, and they identified him.

He has sworn vengeance on those who kidnaped him and held him while his father, Professor Leib, impoverished himself in a vain search.

A woman's desire to avenge a blighted love was the motive behind the kidnaping, Clark avers. The purpose was to blackmail the man who spurned her.

The alleged abductor still lives, he says.

His story is that he was reared in the home of Louise Winter in Norristown, Pa., and was given the name of Ervin T. Winter. The family abused him, he avers, and when he was 18 years old he was told by one of Winter's children that he was not a member of the family.

He ran away soon after that. When he was 38 years old he attended the funeral of Winter and was told by Mrs. Winter he had been kidnaped by a woman at Quincy, Ill., and taken east when he was a child. After that he searched continuously for his relatives.

Accepted as Brother

C. H. Leib of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Bessie Sutherland of Hastings, Minn., have accepted him as their long lost brother, he says.

Professor Leib was 29 years old when came that dread message: "Freddie missing since 7 last night. No trace of him. Come at once."

Back to a frantic mother Professor Leib went. The police were called, but they were powerless. There were many explanations, many theories.

Then followed a search from Atlantic to Pacific, from the Lakes to the Gulf. It extended even to Europe.

Ponds were dragged; river packets along the Mississippi explored. Professor Leib was showered with telegrams. Freddie had been found here, had been found there. He was found in Chicago and Denver; he was seen in Seattle and New Orleans—all the same day.

Professor Leib traced every clew, and all were futile.

Mrs. Leib, who never had recovered from Freddie's disappearance, died in 1885, fourteen years after the tragedy. In the late eighties Professor Leib went to Kansas City, still running down whatever "clews" he could find, still hoping, and always vainly. Then he came to Joplin, where he taught music classes. Here he died.

Beauty Chats

THE FASHION FOR EARS

They say that ears are becoming smart again. Hairdressers are inventing fashions by which half, or even all, of them are shown. Will your ears stand inspection?

They say that much of one's character can be told from the ears. I don't doubt that there is something in it, since everything goes to make up character. There is one good thing, if the ears are hopelessly ugly, they can be covered up by the hair, or at least partly covered. There are no special standards of beauty beyond the fact that they should lie flat against the head, a thing they can be trained to do by wearing an ear cap at night, or, if the case is extreme by undergoing a simple and inexpensive operation.

The ears must be kept as clean as the rest of the face. I suppose my readers will think this is superfluous advice. But though they may be washed out daily with soap and water, that does not mean that they are clean. It is almost impossible to get into those minute creases with a towel, even if it is wrapped round one's finger. The result is that soapsuds collect and dry in the ear crevices.

There is always the danger, too, of either letting too much wax collect in the ears and harden, or of digging at it too strenuously and injuring the ear drums. Twice every year you should go to an ear specialist to have the ears syringed. It is a simple, painless, inexpensive operation. Thousands of cases of deafness are nothing but ears so clogged with wax that they cannot react to sound.

As for those little creases, it would be a good thing if, every month or so, you took a blunt orangewood stick such as you use for your nails, rolled the end with cotton wool and then, very gently so as not to injure yourself, wipe out those little crevices. To remove the wax from the ears do not use the stick; make a little roll of cotton, wet it in oil and squeeze dry, leave in the ear ten minutes and remove.

Anxiously Waiting — At 20 years of age, height five feet seven inches, your weight should be about 130 pounds. If you reduce to normal your face will not be so full. After bathing, massage a very little bit of cream into the skin. Your dry skin requires this after having been depleted of its natural secretions. Always wipe off any surplus cream left on the skin after this treatment.

Earrings, they say, are becoming smart.

M. E.—I will be glad to send you the formulas for the creams on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing.

B. L. M.—Your weight should be 110 pounds. Massage the lines with a good building cream every day.

Tomorrow—Beautifying Sleep.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be asnwered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Peas belong to that quartet of vegetables (the other three being corn, beans and asparagus) which are better canned by the Intermittent Cold Pack Method than the One-Period Cold Pack Method. Use only fresh, young ones. Do not let them stand long after shelling. Sort them over, putting peas of the same size together. Hard, ripe peas should never be put with very tender ones because the very young peas require only about two minutes of blanching, while the old ones may need 15 or 20.

For ordinary, tender peas blanch three minutes for the small ones and eight minutes for the larger. This boiling blanching-water should contain one teaspoon of baking soda to every gallon.

Cold-dip the blanched peas by lowering them into cold water which contains one tablespoon of salt to every gallon, and let them remain in this salty water from 20 to 30 seconds. Then drain, pack in hot sterilized jars (not packing the jars too full, as that causes peas to burst and makes cloudy liquor) add one and one-half teaspoons of salt and sugar (mixed) to every quart-size jar, and fill with boiling water to jar-top. Put on new rubber sterilized glass caps, and place top wire up but do not press down side wire.

By this Intermittent Method the jar of peas is boiled (or "processed") in the wash-boiler canner for one hour on three successive days in water to cover jar. During each of these three boiling periods the top wire is up over the glass cap, but the side wire is not pressed down; at the end of each boiling period, the jar is completely sealed—that is, the side wire is pressed down—and the jar is taken from the wash-boiler and allowed to stand overnight in ordinary room-temperature. In the morning the side wire is raised so that the jar may be processed as before. After the third processing, the side wire is, of course, pressed down permanently. The jar is then inverted to test for leaks, labelled and stored.

It may seem a nuisance to the housekeeper to use the Intermittent Method rather than the One-Period Method. Indeed many housewives have perfect success in canning their peas with the One-Period method. But the three days of processing represents the safest way. And, after all, it's success in canning we are aiming at, no matter what amount of labor that success costs.

Tomorrow—The Two-Piece Bed Set.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LOVE'S ANGER

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a man about ten years my senior and I love him dearly. The other day one of my friends said he was in love with another girl, and this hurt me terribly.

He comes to see me every Sunday and I used to think he thought quite a little of me. I can never give him up. My parents think a lot of him and I have not told them what I heard.

The other night he came to see me and I called him down for something he did which I did not like, and he got angry. Did I do right?

IN LOVE.

Do not pay any attention to what your friend said. If the man loved another girl he would probably want to be with her on Sunday. It rarely pays to call a person down for doing something you do not like. Probably if the truth were known you do things he does not like, but he considers your feelings too much to tell you and hurt you. Put yourself in the other person's place and you will probably realize you wouldn't want to be called down.

LOVE UNBELIEVED

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a boy two years my senior for several months. I dearly love this boy, but he doesn't believe it. He flirts with other girls and compliments them, which makes me very angry. After a quarrel we made up and he promised he would never go again, but he did. He left and went to another town with his parents and went with another girl. He accused me of going with boys when I didn't.

Please advise me what to do. Should we break up or not? I don't see how I could get along without him.

BOBBY.

You have made a great mistake in letting the boy know how much you care when he goes with other girls. Since you are not engaged you have no right to object to his friendships and he has no right to object to yours. The matter will work itself out if you simply wait and let time settle your problem. In case the boy asks to see you again, let him come and do not refer to anything that will only cause trouble and misunderstanding. Of course if he is angry now and does not try to see you again, the only thing for you to do is to let him go. To try to get him to come back would be running after him and you would gain nothing by your effort.

TWO ADMIRERS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty years old and have been going with an out-of-town gentleman for about a year. We have both been earnest in our love for each other. Just recently I met another gentleman whom I care for very much and he is serious. My friend from out of town hasn't noticed the change in me and still discusses our future happiness. I like and admire him as a friend, but that is all. He will be heartbroken when I try to explain to him. What would you do in a case of this kind?

BLUE EYES.

Since you love some one else, it seems to me the only honorable thing for you to do is to write to the man from out of town and tell him that you value him as a friend, but find yourself in love with some one else. Although he is heart-broken, he will recover from the shock. He is not the first to be so disappointed.

CHINESE MOTIFS

NEW YORK, June 4.—Chinese motifs are sometimes curiously suggested. Gilt braid very narrow and shining as twisted from the shoulder to the hip of one evening cloak shown today in a design that suggests, though it does not actually portray a dragon.

NEWEST FOOTWEAR

LONDON, June 4.—Brogues in tan or gray are the newest footwear. The heels are comfortably low but an air of great smartness is added by the long, fringed tongue. This goes under the strap instead of over it.

BUCKLES ON GARTERS

PARIS, June 4.—Quite the chic type of garter shown today is a plain black satin affair which is simplicity and smartness itself. These demure black supporters are trimmed with flashing buckles of brilliants like those on shoes.

VOILE LINGERIE

PARIS, June 4.—Voile lingerie at present has a great deal of stitch decoration. Helitrope voile, for instance has long insets of white voile, cross stitched to the garment.

SENATORS TAKE OPENING ROUND, ANGELS BLANKED

Visitors Grab Two Runs as Prough Allows Seraphs Only Six Hits

By BEN McGUIRE
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Effective pitching by Clint Prough, Salem hurler, who allowed the Angels only six hits, enabled Sacramento to romp home with the opening game of the series yesterday by a score of 2 to 0.

Root, who was on the mound for the Angels, got off to a bad start when McNeely slammed the first ball pitched for a double to left center, was sacrificed to third by Kopp and registered on Hemmingway's single to right. The Solons' other tally came in the second on doubles by Rohwer and Prough.

Prough was never in any danger of being scored upon, not a member of the Angel crew reaching third base.

Preceding the game players of both clubs gathered around the home plate, with their heads bared in silent tribute to John P. Cook, secretary of the Salt Lake club, who died suddenly at his home Sunday.

FIGHT AT SEATTLE

SEATTLE, June 4.—The Indians won the first game of the series from Vernon yesterday 7 to 3 in a game that was marked by a fist fight between "Truck" Hannah and "Red" Killifer, heavyweights, appearing on behalf of Percy Lee Jones and Mike Menoskey, middleweights.

Jones had dusted Menoskey off in the second inning and later between innings Mike thought it over and got so mad about it that he tore after the southpaw twirler. Killifer saw what was coming off and dashed from the dugout to stop the fuss. Truck, strolling in from the coaching line, saw Killifer's dive and grabbing him, tore all the buttons off of his shirt. Red resented this and planted a left hook to the Vernon catcher's jaw. Hannah was about to reply in kind when the umpires broke in, seperated the pair and sent them both to the club house.

Outside of this main attraction, Percy Jones outpitched Leon Cadore and Vines, the Indians hitting air in the pinches.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP

By FAIR PLAY
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—Now the heads of the promoters are together for fair. They are wondering, of course, where Carpentier fits in. Has he any drawing powers left in New York and vicinity? Upon the answer to this question depends much. Talk has been heard since Sturday of this fight and that. But a deal of thinking has yet to be done.

Sprained ankles in a ring fight don't get much credence from the fans as a rule. Bill Brennan pulled it on Dempsey in their first fight. It worked to the extent of getting Bill a return battle in New York but otherwise it did not do so much for knocked-out Bill Brennan.

Tommy Gibbons was obviously easy on the Frenchman after the alleged accident happened. No keen observer seems to have any doubt that Tommy had his man in the ninth as a result of a wearing body blow and could have finished him within the limit had he cared to do so.

Descamps will affirm that had it not been for the ankle Carp would have finished in good shape and will claim credit for the manner in which his man stood up to a knockout hitter so soon after an ocean voyage. Very possibly many will agree with him.

If the writer was a promoter he would take a gamble with considerable pleasure on the appearance of Carp in New York against, say Spalla. In fact it will be surprising if such a battle is not arranged.

As for a bout with Tunney that would pay, too, and it looks as though it will be held. Bill the ballyhoo is held in reserve. In the meantime Carpentier lies in bed in Michigan City nursing an ankle "swollen four times its natural size." It must have cost Descamps something for bandages to make it look that big.

He will probably work his way east, picking up all sorts of coin merely for exhibiting himself with his sparring partners. All in all Carp has a personality that is worth money in the ring or out of it.

Tommy Gibbons says that if that one right which Carp slipped over on him had struck him on the chin it might have caused him real trouble. As it was the blow landed upon his cheek-bone and he testifies that it hurt him as much as the wallop between the eyes he received from Dempsey at Shelby.

As for Carp he cannot himself talk because of the sprained ankle probably, but Gus Wilson, his trainer, says that Tom cracked him with a left hook in the first round that dazed Carp for the first six rounds of the battle. The Frenchman, he says did not really know what it was all about in those first six rounds.

As the tremendous right he dealt Tommy came in the fourth it appears as though it would have been better for Georges had he remained dazed throughout the ten rounds.

Just where Gibbons stands is a question—that is in relation to Dempsey. The belief is that he could have stowed Carp away had not his kindness of heart—or something—stayed his hands. The trouble is that after a day or two it is what a fighter actually does not what he might have done that counts.

Pitcher Or Outfielder?

JOHNNY COONEY started out on the mound, but when the number of games he lost exceeded the number of wins he turned in, Bancroft shifted him to the outfield, where he is doing good work and, incidentally, improving his work with the bat.

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
Written for The Evening News.

Another pitcher has found himself—in the outfield.

At least the case of Johnny Cooney would indicate this.

Baseball records are replete with instances of men who started as pitchers sooner or later graduating into the outer garden.

Some, whose all around baseball ability early appealed to managers more than their pitching qualifications, found themselves shifted unceremoniously to the outer works. Others landed there after time and curve balls had taken the "stuff" out of their arms.

Others, again, were victims of other conditions.

Of the latter class is Cooney.

Cooney has been on the Boston list for four years. He first joined the team in the fall of 1920, a boy of nineteen. Coach Art Devlin, who looked him over in semi-pro games decided he "had the makings."

As the property of the Braves he went to New Haven and his record there one year bore out Devlin's belief. Cooney won 19 and lost but 3 games. The Braves called him back. Last year he was figured to be a regular and when he won but three and lost five some of the wise boys decided the Braves were wasting time on him.

Bancroft's outfield wasn't bullet proof or strong at bat. So he gave Cooney a chance in center.

Cooney's outfielding was satisfactory from the start. His hitting, while not appearing formidable in the averages, has been timely and shows indications of becoming better.

Which indicates that Cooney is about to follow in the footsteps of Charley Jamieson, Babe Ruth, Joe Wood, George Sisler, Rube Bressler, Ed Rice and others. All of these lads broke into the big show as pitchers and served more or less time in that capacity before adjourning to the outfield.

FOR GAME'S SAKE

By LAWRENCE PERRY,
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—It was rather unfortunate that the gale that prevailed in the Harvard Stadium during the last day of the intercollegiate meet seemed to blow every way at once. No matter in what direction events were started times and distances seem to have been affected by the strenuous breezes. This will make it impossible to draw an accurate comparison as between the great eastern meet and the western conference games this coming week end.

Otherwise, the I. C. A. A. A. meet of 1924 will go down in history as one of the most successful of record. And not the least pleasing feature was the cordial manner in which captains and managers of all the competing teams accepted Yale's victory. It was a real celebration that all had at the Hotel Lenox in Boston after the meet. Here are a few constructive impressions of the games:

First of all Hill of Penn proved that preparatory work is desirable for a sprinter. He was at the peak of his form on Saturday.

The shot put was the finest exhibition of weight throwing the world has ever seen. Although Hartranfft of Stanford won, Hills of Princeton was consistently placing the shot at over 49 feet. The Princetonian was but half an inch behind Hartranft's record put of 49 feet 5 7-8 inches. The discus throwing was remarkable and the record is questioned not because the wind was blowing with the throw but because it is thought the opposing breeze tended to keep the missile longer in the air. Hartranfft, Hauser and Arthur all threw the saucer more than 154 feet 6 inches.

The pole vaulters were most bothered by the wind blowing the cross-bar and standards swayed badly in the gale. Owen, Sherrill, Libby, Scholp and Durfee many times were blown back as they went into the air.

Wolf of Penn ran two more races than his opponents in the hurdles because before the finals, he had to qualify in extra heats. It is Wolf's first year in hurdling and in another season he promises to be the peer of Earl Thomson. The concrete like surface of the hammer throwing seemed to bother Gates and Taylor more than their rivals and as a consequence, the two favorites for this event failed to place. Booth in the two mile, Brick in the mile, Watters in the half and Helffrich in the half and quarter all proved their quality by making good time in spite of the high wind.

QUESTION — Batter hits slow roller toward first base. Pitcher fields the ball and when throwing to first base hits the batter in the back. The latter is about one foot inside the chalk line that extends from home plate to first base. Is he out or not? The rule says the runner must stay inside the threefoot line the last half of the distance between home plate and first base while the ball is being fielded to first. Does this mean three feet inside and outside of the direct line between home and first base, or just three feet on the outside of this line?

ANSWER—The three-foot space lies between the actual base line between home and first and a line drawn parallel and three feet outside of the base line. No batter or runner has any right to encroach upon the infield unless he is avoiding a fielder who is trying to field the ball.

QUESTION—If both teams are having a discussion and one side gets, angry and leaves the field which team wins? Will the game have to be played over again?

ANSWER—Any team that deserts the field forfeits the game. That is one thing in baseball that never changes. If you walk away and quit you are through. The game never should be played over, but sometimes there is politics in baseball and games are played over that should not be.

QUESTION—How far is the pitcher's box from the plate on a regular sized field?

ANSWER—It is sixty feet, six inches.

Golf Tournament at Birmingham Started

OAKLAND HILLS, BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 4.—An appetizer was served golf enthusiasts today when the annual east versus west match was played as a preliminary to the main course, the national open championship, tomorrow.

One of the best matches and the one which will probably draw the greatest number of spectators will be an amateur affair. Jesse Guilford of Boston, one-time national amateur champion, will be paired with Bobby Jones against Chick Evans and S. D. Herron.

The pros who probably will furnish the feature tilt in their division are Johnny Farrell and Mike Brady, opposed to Macdonald Smith and Emmett French.

YANKS BEAT SOX

The Yanks began their western invasion with a victory over the White Sox, Pennock's southpaw slants being too much for the Chicago batsmen. Score, 6 to 3.

GOTHAM DOUBTFUL ABOUT J. DEMPSEY

No Title Bout This Year For Champ, Is General Opinion Today

By ARTHUR STRUWE
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Rumors in fistic circles today are that Jack Dempsey will not be seen in a title bout this year. There are several reasons advanced to substantiate these rumors.

"The main one is that Tex Rickard, boxing impresario, will not undertake to stage a bout between the winner of the Firpo-Wills set-to on August 20 and the champion, because after that date it would be too late, in his opinion to stage another bout.

Rickard's decision, it is said, was due to the receipt of a cablegram from Luis Firpo that the Argentinian would not, under any circumstances, consider an engagement with Harry Wills before late in August. Rickard had planned to stage this encounter the first week in August, which, had he been successful, would have enabled him to hold the title bout late in the fall. But Firpo's decision has caused the promoter to change his mind.

Time Is Needed

Rickard said that he believed there would be more interest in the coming battle between Wills and Firpo than there would be in a contest between the negro and Dempsey. But he declared he needed five weeks at least to make the preliminary engagements for a championship encounter, and stated that under no circumstances would he think of taking a chance of putting on a Dempsey bout later than September 15. And with the Firpo-Wills bout coming on late in August, Rickard declared Dempsey would have to wait until next year.

Tom Gibbons, Georges Carpentier and Jack Renault have been mentioned as likely contenders for a title bout with the champion, but Rickard does not believe that anyone of them measures up at present, and he would be taking too much of a chance, in view of the high value Dempsey puts on his services, to promote such a bout.

BOYS HOLD BOUTS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Card Provides Entertainment For Students at Roll Room Assembly

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, Jr.
Of The Evening News Staff.

Three boxing bouts arranged by Les Lavelle, president of the Boys' League, yesterday provided entertainment for the boys of the new Broadway high school during the roll-room period assembly.

In the initial fight Ronny West and "Whirlwind" Weaver were matched for three one-minute rounds. Ronny put it all over Weaver and in the last round had his opponent swinging wild. At the beginning of the last round West caught Weaver on the jaw with a left hook and almost had his opponent out but failed to follow up his chance.

In the second bout Francis Hardey, member of the tennis team, scored a technical knockout over Jack Thayer. In the first round Hardey knocked Thayer down twice, and in the second four times. In the last Hardey shot a straight right which caught Jack on the jaw and sent him down for three counts. Thayer bravely got up but was too groggy to continue and the referee gave Hardey the fight.

The last bout was about the best and fastest on the program. Archie Neal and Kid Worley Hammered each other about the ring without regard to themselves. As the gong sounded at the end of the first round Worley caught Archie under the eye. The blow was a hard one and Neal kneeled with pain but his second saved him by dragging him to his corner.

To conclude the program Hendrick Van Renssaeler and Meredith Osborne fought a clown battle. The only blow landed was one of Van's stove-pipe punches which left a black smudge of stove-black on Osborne's face. Bert Aegason refereed the bouts.

LEFT HANDERS WIN

The Giants left-handed the Dodgers to death, Nehf and Bentley turning in two victories, 9 to 2 and 3 to 2. The Dodgers also tried to southpaw the Giants, but Ruether, who started the first game, went to the showers in the first inning.

POSTPONE GAME

The baseball game between the Glendale Dynamiters and the Alhambra Moors on the latter's field, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until today. The teams tangle at 4 o'clock.

ZACK TAMES TIGERS

Zachery gave a masterful exhibition of pitching, holding the Tigers to two hits, both of which were made by Haney, and the Senators won, 11 to 1.

TENNIS MEET IS DRAGGING ALONG

All Matches Must Be Played This Week or Default, Is New Ruling

The annual Glendale Community tennis tournament is not progressing as rapidly as it should, states Bob Laird who is in charge of the play. Several matches have not been played and all which have not been run off the end of this week will be defaulted. Opponents should meet and arrange to play as soon as possible, he said.

Yesterday one of the hardest fought matches of the tournament went to Bob Stanford when he subdued Earl Shook, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3. Shook was not playing up to his standard and Bob by his superior driving annexed the battle. Wayne Maxwell, second man of the local high tennis team won two matches yesterday. In the first he beat King, 6-0, 6-0, and in the second he defeated Glen Case 6-0, 6-1. Case went into the second round by defeating Bill Bode 4-6, 6-0, 6-0. Bode took the first set without much trouble, but in the last two he lost his wind and was unable to do anything.

Angels Give Three Players Releases To Keep In Limit

Josh Billings, Lyle Bigbee and Bob Wallace were yesterday given their unconditional releases by Marty Krug, manager of the Angels, in order to get the roster down to the playing limit. Billings, a catcher, was obtained from the St. Louis Browns in the Lyons-Rego deal. Bigbee has been used as a utility man, being both an outfielder and a pitcher. Wallace has been with the club for two years, but has had indifferent success as a pitcher.

SAN SOVINO WINS AT EPSOM DOWNS

Royalty Present for Annual Derby and Spectators Number 800,000

EPSOM DOWNS, LONDON, June 4.—Lord Derby's San Sovino, favorite in the betting won the classic derby this afternoon in the presence of nearly 800,000 spectators, including King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales.

St. Germans, owned by Lord Astor, finished second and Hurstwood third. Diophon, the overnight betting favorite, failed to get in the money.

Lord Astor's two entries, Bright Night and St. Germans, were well backed.

King George's chances of victory were lessened when Knight of the Garter was scratched.

Defiance, ridden by Donoghue, was a rank outsider. Donghue had ridden three successive derby winners, but it was generally believed that he could not make it a fourth.

DOPE FROM DUGOUT

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—If the Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia had been able to hold the pace they trotted in 1923, the race for the American league championship today would be the tightest in the history of that organization prior to the fourth of July. It would not be necessary to look for a difference in the Chicago or Washington standings. Both of those clubs could remain as they are.

But the closing of the period up to Decoration Day saw eight games between the tail enders and the team in first place in the American League. It also saw two presumably strong teams in seventh and eighth place. Today those same "strong" teams are tied for the bottom. However, it is possible that the Fourth of July may bring a change which will bring the tail-enders and the league leader closer together. Decoration Day and July 4 are the big guide posts along the baseball highway.

The American League was set this spring for one of the closest races in major league history. The weakness that has developed comes from where it was least expected, which proves again that no man can put a ball team together on form alone and find that it will invariably do just what he expects from it.

The margin between the top and the bottom in the National League on Decoration day was eleven games. Veteran managers say that if they can run out in front by Decoration day they have a good chance of winning the pennant and that if they can show a five game lead on July 4, they are almost certain of winning it. This is not a law, by any means. It has failed to work out more than once. But it has worked out oftener than it has failed.

The Giants have not the same Decoration day lead that they had a year ago but they are showing the same resourcefulness that they did a year ago and they are a mighty dangerous combination for the other clubs, for they have not even dug into their reserve power. They have got to be beaten savagely by the west if the championship is to go to that part of the world, because it begins to look as if Brooklyn, the hope of the east cannot land a punch against its Metropolitan rival. Philadelphia and Boston are hardly to be taken into consideration.

The National League as a whole has shown its power, with the possible exception of Pittsburgh. There is still enough possibility in that team to make it dangerous if it ever gets under way. If it could win one whole series from the Giants it would become a menace at once. Of course it would have to continue to win, after that.

The difference between the American League race and that in the National League is that the former carries with it a greater element of doubt than the latter. There is so much power in Cleveland and there are so many good points about the athletics that the possibility of something happening is always present. In the National there is a recurrence thus early of the same old conviction that the Giants are in the lead to stay. The other clubs with the exception of Chicago and Cincinnati are discouraged already and the season is just six weeks old.

PLAN TO ASSIST GLENDALE WHITE SOX WITH DRIVE

committee and the board of control turned this proposition down Monday afternoon, but as the budget has not as yet been finally approved, according to members of the committee, another effort will be made to secure financial aid for the team owing to the publicity value of the organization to Glendale.

Needs Financial Help

Kerwin has made it plain to the different organizations in the city that unless the people get behind him he cannot operate in Glendale and will be forced to transfer his franchise in the Southern California league to some other place. As practically every city of any size in this part of the state boasts a real ball club, this would be a black eye for Glendale, according to the sentiments expressed yesterday.

"Glendale has the best team in Southern California," said Mr. Johnston yesterday," and we get behind it." L. H. W[illegible] and, in fact, all of the committeemen, were strong for the proposition.

Expect Banner Crowd

On June 14 autos will be admitted to the park and allowed to park around the outfield, in order to accommodate the maximum crowd. For those who do not attend the games it will afford an opportunity to see one of the best teams ever gathered together in California, outside of the Pacific Coast league, in action, and Kerwin expects to pack the park.

An intensive drive is to be made, starting today, in the hope of enlisting the aid of every business man and resident of Glendale. The committee will hold another meeting next Friday afternoon at Mr. Bennett's office, when reports will be made as to the progress of the campaign, and special selling features discussed.

Knocks Out Three Opponents At Benefit Show Held In Vernon Arena

Jack Dempsey showed just why he is the best fighter in the world before 9,000 people at Doyle's arena last night when he eliminated three contenders for his heavyweight crown. They were all contenders but that lets them out.

His victims were Rocco Stragmalia, the gent who obtained a million dollars' worth of publicity by cutting Jack's eye at Great Falls. Jack knocked him down early but he got up again and then the champion tapped him once more and the birds sang merrily. Joe Ryan and Eli Stanton were the other victims of this popping off business. Jack received a great reception from the crowd.

Jimmy Duffy got the verdict over Billy Wells in a great fight. This was the third meeting of the pair and Duffy now has the edge.

Other bouts ended as follows: Babe Herman beat Willie O'Brien; Johnny Adams drew with Larry Murphy; Dode Bercot beat Don Davis; Manny Kaplan got the decision over Jack Lynch; Georgie Rivers beat Frankie Grendetta and Gene Delmont drew with Jimmy Hackley.

SPORT WISDOM

By WALTER CAMP
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—The one great lesson to be drawn from the intercollegiate meet, which was won by Yale by the margin of a single point is that the field events should be started earlier in order that they may be completed while there still remain to be run off two or three track events.

Those who were at the meet picture an enraptured crowd leaping forward or standing up with craning necks wildly applauding each heave of the giant hammer throwers, upon whom depend the ultimate decision of the 1924 intercollegiate. What actually happened was this. Ten thousand spectators are sitting impatiently in their seats—all the events they can see having been finished—looking at a big black scoreboard upon which will be posted after a while the results of the final contest—the hammer throw, which is being decided in a back lot over behind the stadium.

A blackboard finish is no way to end so thrilling an intercollegiate.

Gage, apparently was eliminated—and without him Yale would not have scored points enough to win. But another queer turn of luck put him back in the running. The time of this heat was a tie with the time of another for the fastest heat. He had to be run off and Gage came through.

GOD PRICES AT CONVENTION ARE FIXED UNIFORM

Profiteering on Meals, Lunches at Madison Square Garden

By ROBERT T. SMALL
pecial Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—While wo or three of the more exclusive clubs of this city are going o bar all Democrats from their acred premises during the naional convention, the latter part f the month, this does not mean hat a proper provision is not to e made for all delegates and isitors.

he clubs say they fear overrowding if guest cards are isued during the pow-wow at Madison Square Garden. They re afraid that some of the old oys who sit in the windows day fter day and month after month nd watch the strollers along the venue might have their inhered diversion interferred with.

Inhospitable as some of the lubs may be, the committee hich is preparing for the conention, has determined that the olks from the inter-land shall e well fed and cared for—at east while they are in the convention hall proper.

Regulate "Hot Dogs"

The committee for instance as provided that "hot dogs" hall be purveyed at the Garden o one and all and at the uniorm price of 15 cents per og. Naturally, the committee ot flippant enough to refer e animals as dogs. They e out down on the program as illed frankfurters and this in self ought to justify the inease from the usual price of a me, the tenth part of a dollar, 15 cents the convention rate. Delegates from the pie belt,—e breakfast food of New Engnd and the dinner delicacy of e Middle West—will be glad to now that their favorite fruit is be held down to the level of e lowly hot-dog and will be obtainable in any quantities at 15 nts per slice. The size of the ice has not been specified in e contract, but the understandg is that if the ratio falls bew six to one—six slices to one e—William Jennings Bryan, or yone else, may rise to a point order or personal privilege and op the balloting for a presidenl candidate until the pie scandal thoroughly threshed out.

All For 45 Cents

Coffee, tea and milk are to provided at 15 cents a cup or blet. Thus it will be seen that ng as any delegate or Garn visitor is possessed of 45 nts, he can get a square or ree-cornered meal of dog, pie d beverage. But even if he n only afford the grilled frankrter, the dog ought to be able keep the wolf from the door. Any delegate desiring to go to the realm of the higher gasnomic spheres, will find a adually rising scale of price. e ascendant is at no time rupt and the caterer has given nd that he will make no atmpt to gouge or profiteer. tiless publicity will beat at all nes, upon his price list which ust be prominently displayed. icken and hot roast beef sandches will rate as high as 50 nts apiece. Near beer will be ocked down for two bits but ain common or garden soda pop n be had for the fateful fifen.

Fifteen Cents Again

Those who would sit down and e, may have roast beef and ked potatoes for a mere mat- of $1.15. It's strange how 15 cents ratio climbs into of the prices. However, fastidious who may desire iladelphia capon, chestnut ssing, carrots, peas, saute pooes and compote, can have it for $1.50.

New York still insists upon king at the convention as mething of a circus or a six y bicycle race. The food conct, for instance, stipulates that othing should be sold on the or of the convention." Peanuts the politicians of that stripe st be bought in the outside corrs at 10 cents a bag. The peat concession was not in great mand at the Garden, for at this nvention there will be no elegant to feed.

It was also gravely announced t "no intoxicating liquors" will sold, bartered or exchanged on premises.

BUSINESS WORLD

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, June 4.—"No progressive big baker in the United States wants to increase the price of a loaf of bread." That is the opinion of William B. Ward, who, since his accession to the presidency of the Ward Baking Company, is the biggest baker in America. He declared in addition that he was confident that he spoke not only for his own company, which controls nineteen plants in thirteen large cities, but for the industry in general.

"No far sighted baker," he said, "desires to increase the price because he would rather increase the volume of his business. No one can build a great and profitable business by grabbing a high profit from one loaf. The taste of the public tells the story. If you can please that taste, the public will buy your product and continue to buy it in increasing quantities. If you fail to please that taste, your patrons—the housewives of America—immediately become your competitors.

"The baking business is the one industry of which I know where this is true. Today, 40 per cent of the bread consumed in America is made in the homes of America. If the housewives who rule those homes are not satisfied with your product or your price they can and will produce their own bread in competition with you. Therefore the baking industry can never become a monopoly, no matter how large baking companies may grow, for no company can find it possible to grow or expand beyond the point where the public it serves believes it deserves to grow.

"The last fourteen years have shown the most remarkable strides in the making of bread. Up to 1910 ovens had been practically unchanged since the days of the flood. Now under a gravity system and operation of traveling ovens baking 5,000 loaves an hour, not a human hand touches the ingredients from the time they are mixed until the finished loaf is sealed and wrapped in a protective covering.

"The old idea of a baker visualized the scene of operations in a cellar which was forbidden after an investigation showing communicable disease in more than 50 per cent of such establishments. There are still some of these bakeries in existence, but it is the improvement of sanitary conditions in materials and in nourishment that has turned the housewife from home bread production to the bakeries.

"As to standardization of product the modern big baker maintains a chemical department which takes nothing on trust and which tests the purity and nutritive value of every ingredient entering into the modern loaf of bread. With all of this, no two loaves of bread ever were exactly alike.

"When flour is mixed with yeast and other ingredients it is instinct with life. Like a human being, if given proper care and treatment and closely watched it turns out well. If it does not receive proper treatment it turns out badly. Practice makes perfect, however, and through quantity production the quality of the loaf of bread is being steadily advanced.

"Weight, or size, mean little. Nourishment is the quality that must be present. There is not a big baker today who could not make bread and sell it at a cheaper price, but the bread so made, of flour, yeast, salt and water, would not carry the sustenance of the present loaf no matter how large or how heavy the individual loaf was made. There are low and high grades of flour and low and high grades of milk, eggs, yeast, salt and shortening.

"A loaf weighing a pound made of inferior ingredients may contain less nourishment than one far smaller and lighter. A quart of milk furnished a parallel example. One may buy a quart of high grade full cream milk or a quart of skim milk. The bulk is the same but the food value shows a remarkable difference. The public will repeat on quality and that is what the modern baker must give them."

With regard to fluctuations in the cost of raw material, Mr. Ward said: "The cost of flour does not tell the whole story. Flour represents less than 25 per cent of the cost of the ingredients of a loaf of bread. Another 25 per cent of the total cost is caused by selling and distributing. Then, there are the sanitary precautions, represented by waxed paper and other necessary products. The public insists on them and properly but they are as legitimate a part of the cost of bread as flour and yeast."

Shipments are off and several zinc mines have closed.

CLEVELAND, June 4.—The use of motor trucks in hauling freight from sub-stations to main stations has been inaugurated by the Erie Railroad. The trucks are replacing ferry or trapp car service. The road expects through the new system to save 24 hours in handling inbound and outbound freight in less than carload lots. This is the second move on the part of the railroads in this section to coordinate rail and truck transportation. The New York Central officials report satisfaction over the way the plan of picking up less than carload freight between Cleveland and Buffalo is working and plans to extend the system to Toledo. Most of the Northern Ohio steel plants are working at a 50 to 60 per cent of capacity.

INVESTMENTS

By GEORGE T. HUGHES
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

COMMON STOCK ISSUE

An old college friend, one of the squarest and most capable men I ever knew, asked me to introduce him to an investment banker. He had built up a profitable manufacturing business that was growing so rapidly he wished to issue $200,000 in bonds to care for new business. I was present when my friend laid before the investment banker a complete report of his business. We all three knew it was the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

"Excellent," said the investment banker, "but I would not touch it. It is a common stock proposition. Your security would make the bonds safe if you had no misfortunes or severe depressions, but it isn't sufficient to assure absolutely full payment of the bonds should you fail. I don't think you will fail. A man could afford to take the fair business risk in buying your stock because the probability of excellent dividends would pay for the risks. There is every indication that you will continue to pay excellent dividends. But a bond buyer could not assume the same risk for the lower yield of bonds."

"You have three economic weaknesses," the investment banker said indicating the report. "Labor troubles could cripple you. Your patents are exceedingly valuable. Suppose other patentable devices are developed that make yours obsolete. Your patents would be worthless as security for your bonds.

"That's on the bond buyer's side. It wouldn't be fair to your business to bond you so heavily. It would risk your future credit. Yes, I know that a bond issue, if feasible, would be the cheapest way for you to obtain capital, but it wouldn't be wholly fair to my customers to let them take even a slight risk, and it wouldn't be fair to your business to tie it up in a loan that might make future loans difficult. Issue stocks. In your business they are an excellent buy."

This investment banker handled only bonds. I took my friend to an investment banker who handled both stocks and bonds. A stock issue was sold quickly to well-to-do-business men who knew the investment banking house and who recognized the stock as an excellent purchase.

My friend, like a great many other good business men, up to that time had known virtually nothing of corporate finance, which is the proper arranging of stock or bond issues of an enterprise so that the enterprise will have the best opportunity for success and the investors the greatest opportunity for safety or profit. That is one example of how sound securities are made. It is a careful, scientific, procedure. It is wholly different from the make-believe stocks and bonds that glib crooks offer the inexperienced with promises of impossible returns.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Oils continued the strongest feature of the market on the Los Angeles stock and bond exchange this morning, while mining issues fell off and were considerably depressed.

Standard Oil of California opened this morning up ¼, at $57, but lost the gain with light trading. Rio Grande Oil common was firm at $90.

Plan Three Meetings Prior to Vacations

At the meeting last night of the Oratorio department of the Glendale Music club it was announced that there will be but three more meetings before the vacation recess.

The music taken up under the direction of John Smallman, is proving most interesting.

Both Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. Roberta T. Young of the department are urging all Glendale people interested in singing, to attend the coming meetings. It is their desire to have a splendid nucleus assembled for a fall chorus before the return of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, club president, from her trip abroad.

FINANCIAL BRIEFS

By Southland News Service

Orpheum circuit has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 14.

Ford Motor company has been gradually curtailing its operations during the past six weeks and a more prpnounced step in this direction is expected to be taken soon through elimination of one of the night shifts, according to word from Detroit. During the greater part of this year to date Ford's Highland Park plant in Detroit and many of the departments at River Rouge have been running three eight-hour shifts a day, six days a week. Within a week or two one of the night shifts probably will be discontinued, and unless retail demand picks up perceptibly, the Ford plants will be shut down on Saturdays altogether, thereby placing production on a five-day a week basis with two eight-hour shifts daily. While in some sections of the country Ford dealers have practically no stocks of cars on hand, in most regions dealers and distributors are heavily loaded with unsold vehicles. This is the first time in several years the Ford dealers have been heavily stocked during the current season.

Daily average of crude oil production in Southern California basin fields declined approximately 8,500 barrels for the week ending May 31. The total yield is estimated at 348,000 barrels against 356,600 in the previous week.

NEW YORK CLOSING

H. J. DUIZEND
For International News Service

NEW YORK, June 4.—The further clearing of the political atmosphere occasioned by the Senate's vote to adjourn Saturday despite the opposition of Senator La Follette, was reflected in a generally strong and comparatively active stock market today.

The defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill, the general feeling that business was at its lowest ebb and that the eliminaiton of "congressional meddling" would make for renewed confidence and encourage business interests to go ahead with their plans, also acted as bullish influences.

Relief over the cessation of legislative activities was mostly felt in the railroad list. There was heavy buying in both dividend paying and minor carriers' shares, new highs being reached by Missouri Pacific preferred, the Erie and Southern.

Industrials went through a period of relative buoyancy in the early dealings, the advances being the largest in those issues in which a large short interest was reported to have been outstanding.

Public interest was again wholly confined to the better grade issues with long dividend records and the public utilities, among which American water works was aagin the undisputed leader.

Oils, however, were weakened considerably following their initial spurt of strength, selling being due to rumors of an impending crude oil cut in the mid-continent fields.

Money conditions continued easy, call money lending at 2¾ per cent, after renewing at 3 per cent.

Bonds, both domestic and foreign, were firm. Grains displayed strength but cotton developed weakness, following which exchanges were heavy.

Weakness in the oils became more pronounced as the session drew to a close. Standard Oils were in increased supply. Among the important shares, those of companies operating in mid-continent territory were especially hard hit. Cosden dropped below 27, for a new low for the current year. Sugars were adversely influenced by the renewed decline in the refinery commodity. The market closed irregular.

URGE ACTION TO CONTROL FLOODS

Construction of Check Dams in Haines Canyon Will Begin Soon, Belief

TUJUNGA, June 4.—Work of building flood control check dams in Haines canyon is expected to be begun soon as a result of the efforts of a committee appointed by the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce to expedite, if possible, the action of the flood control officials. A. C. Stover is chairman of the committee and D. A. Johnston is secretary.

Mr. Ingram of the county engineers' office was in Tujunga Saturday and went over the ground where the work is to be done. While he was not authorized to make a definite statement he expressed the opinion that work would be started by July 1. Engineer Reagan of the flood control had previously stated that an expression from the people of the district of the urgent need of flood control work would result in action being taken.

$18,000 Available

Mr. Ingram also stated that the $18,000 allotted to this work in the bond election of 1917, which was never used, is available and will be present on the work specified. A general misunderstanding between officials and hill residents as to the need of the work is supposed to have been all that prevented the work being done at an earlier date. Part of the original $35,000 voted at the time for the Tujunga district was diverted to other purposes, with the consent of the district. It has remained for some one to take aggressive action in getting the remaining $18,000 spent for the work.

The visit of Mr. Ingram was the result of this resolution, adopted by the committee and sent to the flood control officials:

Need is Stressed

"The undersigned committee appointed by the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of compiling information and cooperating with your honorable board would respectfully state that there does exist a very urgent need for flood control work in Haines canyon and suggests any money previously assigned for this purpose as well as the money recently voted for flood control work in Haines canyon be immediately expended for the purpose of carrying on preliminary surveys and doing construction work for the purpose of controlling flood waters of Haines canyon.

"Prompt action is respectfully requested because of the fact that a large number of homes have already been constructed in the path of available channels and especially of the temporary depression now existing and that many of our local residents would be able to secure employment on the work."

SPEND VACATION IN BIG TUJUNGA

Wildwood Lodge Lures Week-End Parties to Canyon Resort

TUJUNGA, June 4. — Many people of Los Angeles, Pasadena and vicinity took advantage of the extra holiday at the week-end and spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the mountains. Friday was opening day at Wildwood Lodge, Big Tujunga canyon resort, and the accommodations were taxed to the limit.

This is the second year the canyon lodge has been operating and extra cabins have been built, making a total of four mountain cabins and four tent houses on the ninety acres in the tract.

Guests at Resort

Among the week-end guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Todkill of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wertz, Los Angeles; M. T. Smythe, Los Angeles; A. J. Fox, Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. Ruddell, Pasadena; Helen A. Pastor Has First Place on Program At Men's Meeting

TUJUNGA, June 4.—Rev. Fred W. Williams, pastor of the San Fernando Presbyterian church, had the principal place on the program of the entertainment given by the Men's Brotherhood of the Tujunga Community church Tuesday night, giving some of his well-known readings.

The program was given in connection with the regular monthly dinner of the Brotherhood in the church basement. Musical numbers by talented local entertainers also entertained the guests. The Brotherhood meetings are meeting with incrasing popularity.

Silver Tea Swells Fund to Purchase Books for Circle

TUJUNGA, June 4.—A silver tea given at the home of Mrs. B. B. Reynolds added $6.55 to a fund that will be used to purchase books for the reading circle of the Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. John T. Bell was hostess.

The program of entertainment for the afternoon included piano selections by Mrs. Jessie Kimpel, solo dance by Ernestine Hirsch, recitation by Helen Holmes, recitation by Mrs. D. J. Sullivan, piano solo by Eileen Sweet, violin solo by Mrs. Augustus Adams, vocal solos by Mrs. John Sweet and Mrs. B. B. Reynolds. Miss Frances Morgan won a prize, a hand-embroidered towel, worked by Mrs. Alice Carr.

ARTISTS' CLUB TO GET NEW MEMBERS

Plans Now Under Way to Use Building as Meeting Place in Future

EAGLE ROCK, June 4.—The Young Artists' club members hope to secure the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse as the seat of their future operations. The club has been allied with the Women's club, although the Young Artists keep their individual identity as an organization. They will meet at the home of Miss Margaret Stuckwisch on Yosemite Drive on June 10. The present organization is desirous of enlarging its membership as there are numerous young girls in the district who have real musical talent, and who would be glad of the opportunities which the Young Artists will have for study and pleasure.

Eagle Rock will have reason to look with pride upon the many entries to be made from this district in the coming city track meet, to be held at the Coliseum June 7 at 1:30 o'clock, when more than 7000 boys will be entered in the track events and posture parade.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thompson of Ellenwood Drive have left for a ten day trip to Yosemite. Mr. Thompson will attend the bankers' convention while there. Mr. and Mrs. Threlkeid of San Gabriel, will accompany them.

Mrs. W. O. Hardman and son Robert have left for a month's visit to their old home in Orleans, Ind.

LOCAL PHYSICIAN WILL DRAFT LAWS

Dr. Harry V. Brown Named As Legislative Committee Of State Board

Dr. Harry V. Brown, well-known Glendale physician and secretary of the High School Board of Trustees, has been signally honored by being appointed a member of the legislative committee of the State Board of Medical Examiners which will draft measures to be submitted to the next legislature with a view to curbing quack medical schools and halting the traffic in fake diplomas.

The appointment was announced in Sacramento recently by Dr. C. D. Pinkham, secretary of the board. The other members of the committee are Dr. John Yates of San Diego and Dr. William R. Malone of Los Angeles.

In addition to the legislation aimed at the "diploma mills," the committee will draft an act providing for the suspension of licenses of physicians who are declared insane.

This is not the first time that Dr. Brown has been recognized by California physicians, as he has served as secretary of the state board of health.

TUJUNGA, June 4.—Mrs. Adelia Wade, formerly of Oregon and now a resident of Tujunga, has been honored by the women's clubs of Oregon with an invitation to be an official delegate to the seventeenth Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs now being held in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Wade was one of the founders of the Woman's club in her home state and has been active in club work for many years and the invitation to sit with the Oregon delegates as one of them is a recognition of her popularity and effective work in women's club circles.

DELEGATES WILL INSPECT VALLEY

Clubs Join to Plan Play-Day for Women Attending L. A. Convention

TUJUNGA, June 4.—One of the most elaborate and what is expected to prove one of the most enjoyable affairs planned in honor of visiting delegates to the Seventeenth Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs now being held in Los Angeles has been arranged by the women's clubs of the San Fernando valley, to take place next Saturday, June 7, at San Fernando.

Saturday is "play day" for the delegates and many affairs have been arranged for their entertainment. Women's clubs of the San Fernando valley agreed to join hands in arranging a novel program that will occupy the time of the delegates all day, with something to entertain them every moment. Included in this group of clubs are: San Fernando Civic and Ebell clubs, Tujunga Woman's club, Newhall, Burbank, Mission Acres, Van Nuys, Zelzah, Reseda, Pacoima, Owensmouth, Chatsworth, Lankershim, Valley Vista.

Lunch at Mission

Mrs. Mary Griswold of the San Fernando Ebell club is chairman of the committee on arrangements. Mesdames Nelson E. Jones, president of the Tujunga Woman's club, Theobald, Kindler, Wheeler, Fenno, Francis, from Tujunga, will assist representatives of the other clubs in preparing and serving a luncheon at the old San Fernando Mission. Mrs. Jones will be on the reception committee appointed to receive the visitors.

Ten excursion busses, costing the clubs $500 for the day, will leave the Gates hotel in Los Angeles at ten o'clock Saturday morning and proceed by scenic routes to San Fernando. Mrs. Dace is chairman of the transportation committee. Each bus will be personally conducted by a member of some club who is thoroughly conversant with the San Fernando valley and Verdugo hills, who will relate to the guests the romantic history of each locality as they pass through. Mrs. Flora White of Tujunga will entertain the passengers of one bus with interesting sketches of early days in the Verdugo hills. At Benmar Hills a stop will be made and punch will be served the guests.

Program of Music

Upon arrival at the San Fernando Mission the guests will be greeted by the presidents of the clubs of the San Fernando valley. They will be conducted on a tour of the Mission, to be followed by a luncheon served in the Mission grounds. Each club will be represented in the preparing and serving of the luncheon. One feature will be that every item on the menu will be something grown and prepared by the club members themselves.

Following the luncheon there will be an elaborate program of instrumental and vocal music, costume dances featuring the Spanish, and including other national dances of other countries. There will also be included in the program tableaux representing scenes from early California history. A band will play in the grounds during the luncheon.

Members of the various clubs have worked hard on their plans and believe they have arranged a program that will prove novel and interesting to the visitors.

MONTROSE PLANS FOR CITY PARKS

Forestry Service and County Promise Aid to Make Project Success

MONTROSE, June 4.—The last Chamber of Commerce meeting of this season was held last night in the Montrose schoolhouse, when a good deal of community business was accomplished.

G. Clark, who is chairman of the parks committee, gave a report on what he had done. In regard to the Oak Grove park, at the extreme eastern line of Montrose, Mr. Clark had gone to Mr. Brown, who owns the Oak Grove tract. Mr. Brown sold the lots in this district with the understanding that the grove of oak trees would be a sort of private park for adjacent propertyholders, but now he is willing to make it a public park, if a petition circulated in that district shows the residents willing to have it so.

The forestry department was also visited by Mr. Clark. This department is willing to plant all the trees needed on a park space at the intersection of Orangedale and Mira Vista, which is about 100x200 feet. The county will grade this property and put in playground equipment, providing the community furnishes a curbing for the property.

On motion by Mr. Collins a petition for popular subscription will be circulated to install curbing at the park space at Orangedale and Mira Vista. He started the list with $10.

Summer Playground

T. A. Blanford, principal of the schools, was heard from on a summer playground for the children of the valley. After talking on the need for such a place, with a proper supervisor, Mr. Blanford stated the school board could not finance the project, nor could the Parent-Teacher association, as they had raised and spent over $500 during the past year on the school work. Mr .Blanford felt the civic organizations of the valley could give it financial as well as moral support. The Chamber of Commerce went on record as beng in favor of it, also donating $50 toward this project. Mr. Collins felt the Improvement society of La Crescenta would also give its quota.

In case of a deficit in funds, as there will be two months' salary to be paid a supervisor and $50 to be spent in additional playground equipment, Mr. Collins stated that he himself would be glad to help out the financial end.

Mr. Blanford also asked the Chamber of Commerce to appoint a committee of one to act with other committeemen to interview and hire the instructor, also to have the handling of funds. William Hickey was appointed.

Dogs came in for their share of attention last night, and Mark Collins expresed a wish to have Fido tagged here as in the city. It has got to be a habit of Sunday motorists to dump their undesired cats and dogs in this valley. It is felt that taxing the families for their pets will help clean the valley of the stray animals. Mr. Brown instructed Secretary W. Sullivan to write the county assessor about including this tax in next year's business if possible. A cat tax was suggested also.

Mrs. A. F. Hopkins, unable to be present, sent her report on the telegram situation. The company will deliver telegrams from Glendale to Montrose for 75 cents, providing the street and number are on the telegram, and to La Crescenta, with the same restrictions, for $1.

President Brown brought up the question of a summer recess, and it was voted to disband until the second Tuesday in September.

As the present officers' terms expire in August, Mr. Brown urged the members to give serious thought to the question of election during the summer, and endeavor to pick out serious, practical men for the offices to be filled. Mr. Brown also thanked every member for his and her support and help during the year.

SET RECORD VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS

Issue Carries 20 to 1 In Los Angeles, to Add New Buildings

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—A new record for a school bond vote was established in carriage of the $34,600,000 issue at the polls yesterday by nearly 20 to 1. As a result of this overwhelming sentiment in favor of improved educational facilities, there will be launched an era of unprecedented building of schools, with its inevitable accompaniment of prosperity, not only in this city but throughout the county.

From the time the first ballots began trickling into the board of education counting room in the Security building, it was evident that the voters were going to record a large majority in favor of the program. The report of high school precincts shows that their ratio will not quite equal that of the elementary schools in support of the measure, but it is obvious that the combined returns from both will easily approximate the 20 to 1 ratio.

Aid Employment

As no more than a two-thirds vote is required to approve the measure, it is seen that the victory of the educationalists has been tremendous. In many precincts the vote was unanimous. It is expected that the expenditure of these millions of dollars on additional school buildings will give employment to thousands of craftsmen in many trades, over a long period. Board of education members and school administrative officers state that no time will be lost in getting the gigantic program under way.

PERMITS EXCEED MILLION DOLLARS

Slump in May Is Offset by Figures for Preceding Months' Building

BURBANK, June 4.—The building permit total has gone over the million mark for the year to date, despite the fact that a decided slump took place in May construction this year, the total being but $78,400, as contrasted with $318,750 for May a year ago.

The records of the building inspector's office also show permits, plumbing and electrical as well as building, totaled 382 which indicates a healthy growth in the building line in spite of the scare precipitated by the advent of the foot and mouth disease, that residents feel resulted in causing prospective builders to stop and wait awhile to see how things were coming out.

Following is a resume of last year's building in Burbank, as contrasted with this year's to date.

	1923	1924
January	$145,525	$233,085
February	170,405	232,286
March	167,365	293,068
April	151,965	213,745
May	318,750	78,400
June	157,285
July	101,875
August	147,225
September	181,360
October	176,200
November	235,440
December	311,875
Totals	$2265,110	1,050,584

Work commenced last Monday on the grading and paving of Pioneer boulevard. According to the city planning commission, Pioneer is considered a major boulevard and will greatly shorten the distance between Hollywood and Burbank.

Work on the A. A. Fischer home has been suspended until the recovery of the two head carpenters who, in their haste and anxiety to get to work, recently ran over each other and both are confined to their homes, nursing their injuries.

VARIETY IN COATS

NEW YORK, June 4.—The vogue for black and white has produced a variety of black coats with wide bands of white silk braid. It has also produced the white flannel frock trimmed with black silk fringe.

A splendid dry mop can be made from legs of old black stockings.

Why I Am In Glendale

Glendale captivated me on my very first visit, so much so that we purchased a home on our second visit.

My first impression was that I liked the substantial and prosperous appearance of the business district. The location, with the hills as a background, seemed ideal, and the houses really were homes. In fact the atmosphere of Glendale appeals to the newcomer as being particularly homelike—and a homelike atmosphere is what most of us "exiles" from the East are looking for. We have found that Glendale has many other advantages, too—the easy accessibility to the beaches and surrounding beauty spots—the cool breeze that blows through the valley even on the hottest summer days—the up-to-date stores, fine schools and library. Who wouldn't be proud and happy to live in Glendale?
